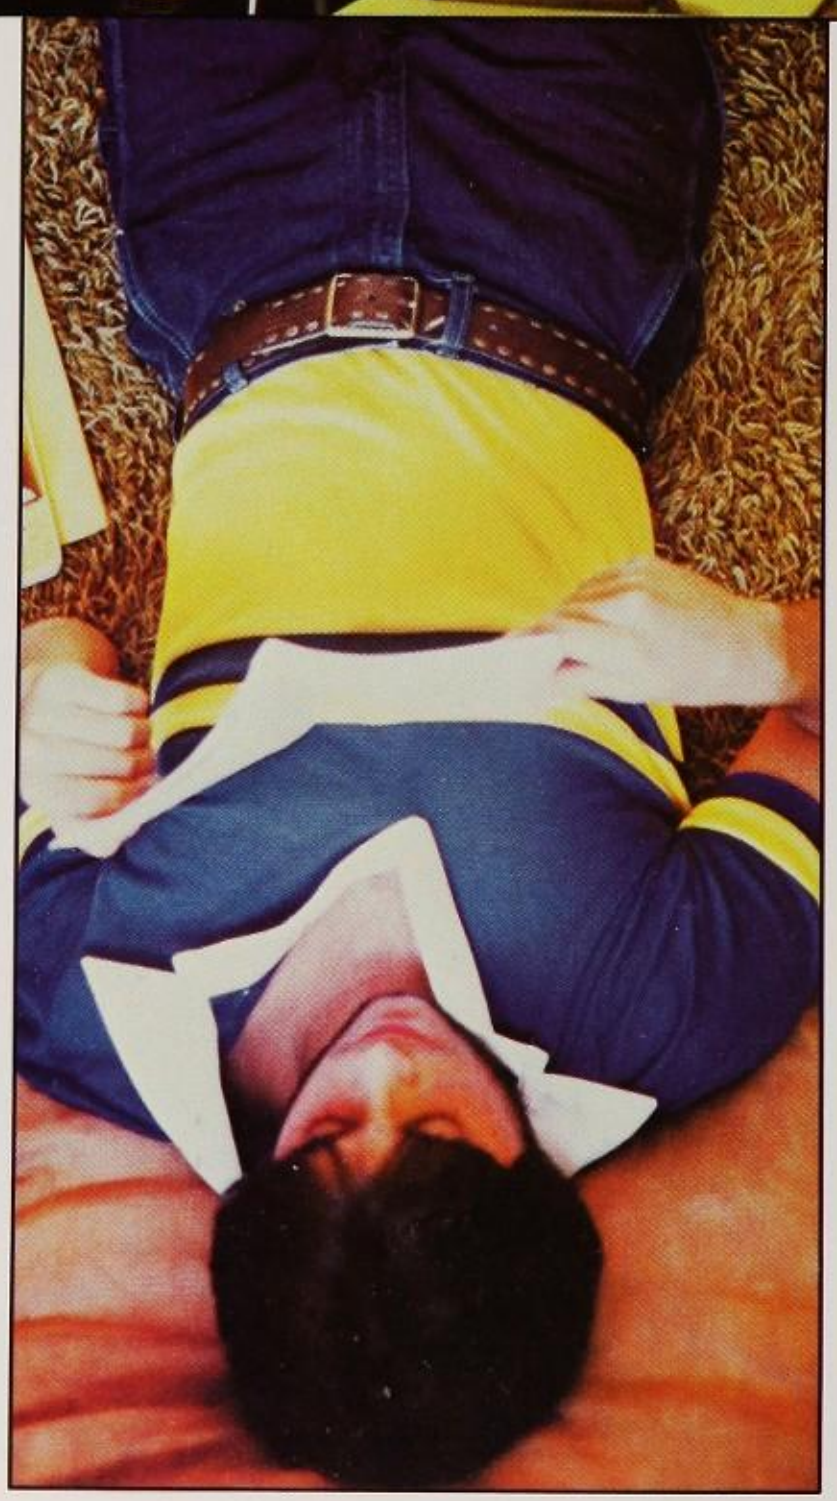
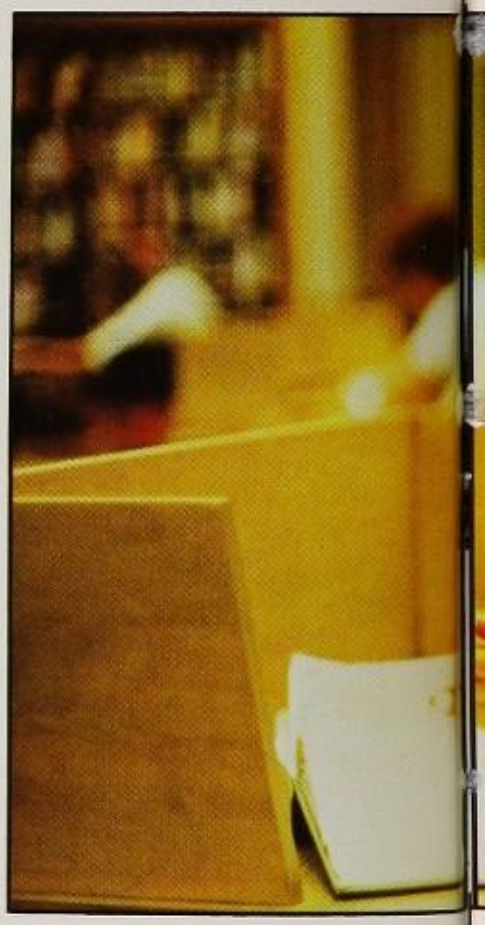
Sometime during our high school years, we develop a growing awareness of ourselves and our surroundings. Inspired by our curiosity, we discover the potential of our unlimited resource — New Trier.

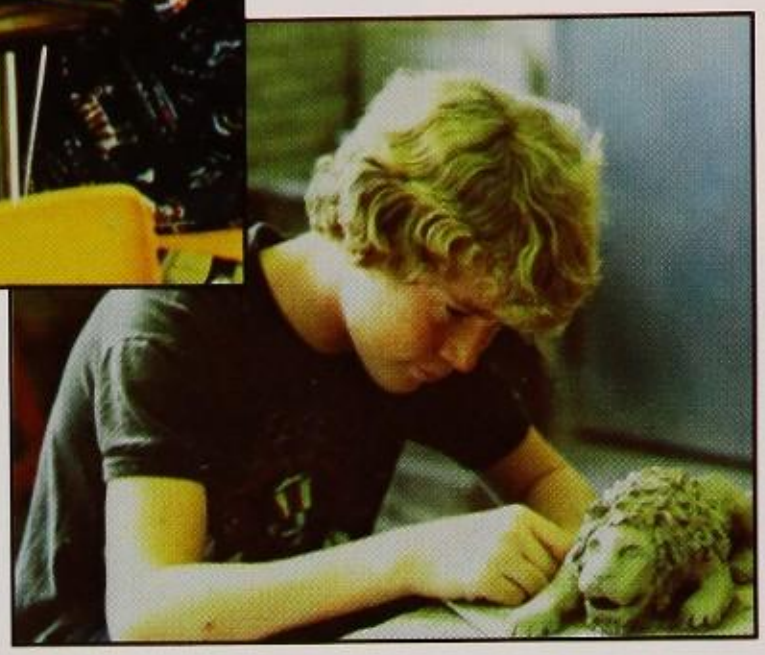
Cam(Kim)

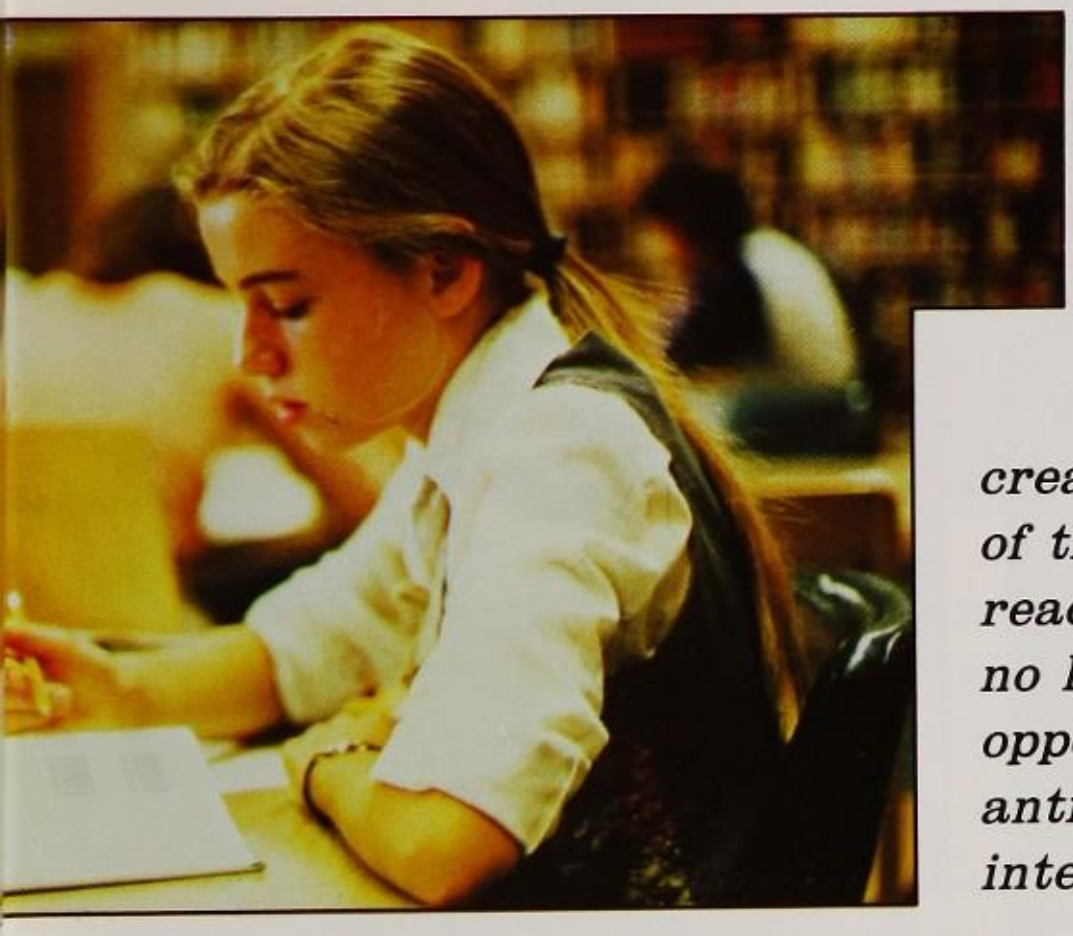
Going to LINKS with you was quite a experience. The method we chose was painless and caused very little emotional stress. Just kidding. Carl Baby (Hirsch) was a real doll, and a darn good teacher. HA HA (even though we had attention spans of mosquitoes) Have a good summer,

Melanie









Constant challenges spark our creative energy. We become aware of the purpose of our education, reaching a point where learning is no longer a task but an opportunity. With mounting anticipation, we pursue our new interests.

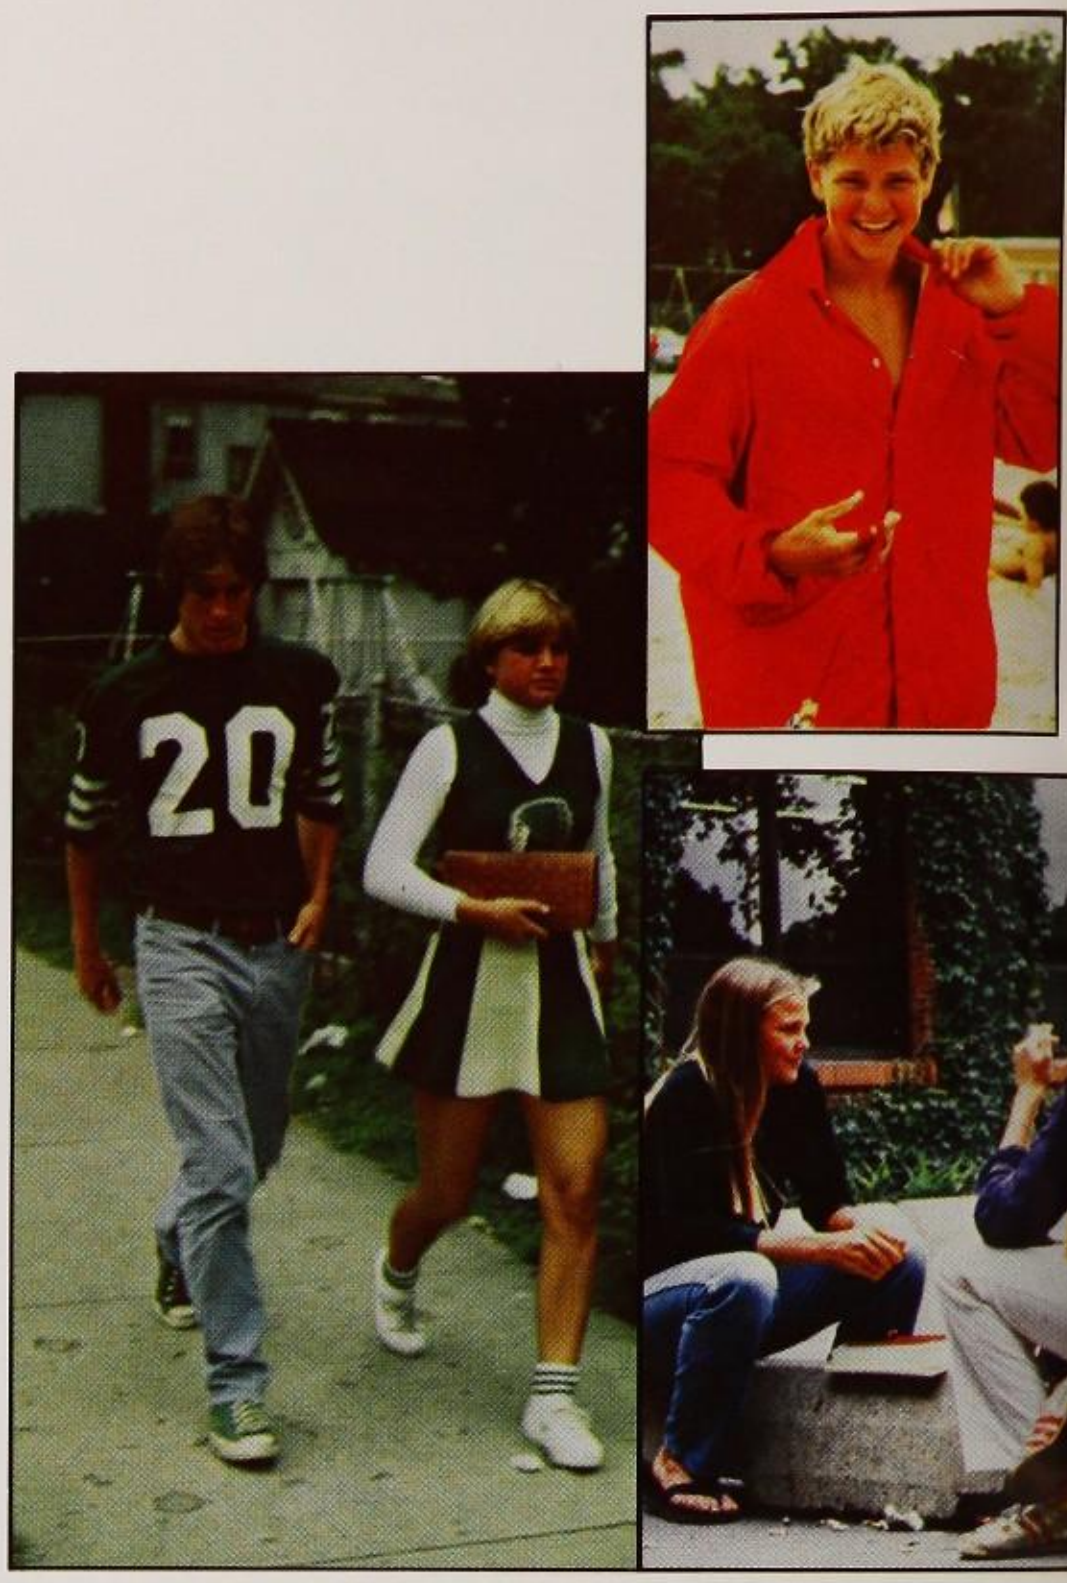
As we mature, so do the stakes, and suddenly we are playing for keeps. Whether it is running in a marathon, struggling through a final exam, or socializing in the center hall, competition fosters unannounced contests at New Trier. Win, place, or show, competition is an incentive to achieve.



While recognizing our apparent differences, we discover our disguised similarities. The physics student can appreciate the artist's imagination, while the artist can understand the creativity of the scientist's logic. Inspired by each other's interests, we generate new ideas through a melding of minds.

Dear Cam,

I am really sorry I didn't get to see much of you this year but I'll try to schedule next year so we have some talking-time!!! You're a very special person to me and I hope I can see you this summer - what are you doing? I'm a day-camp counselor! This is quick + short but I am "at a loss for words!" - I still think you should have won V.P!!!!! Take acting next year + we can be in the same class - that would be fun! I'll see you this summer I hope!

Love,

Patty

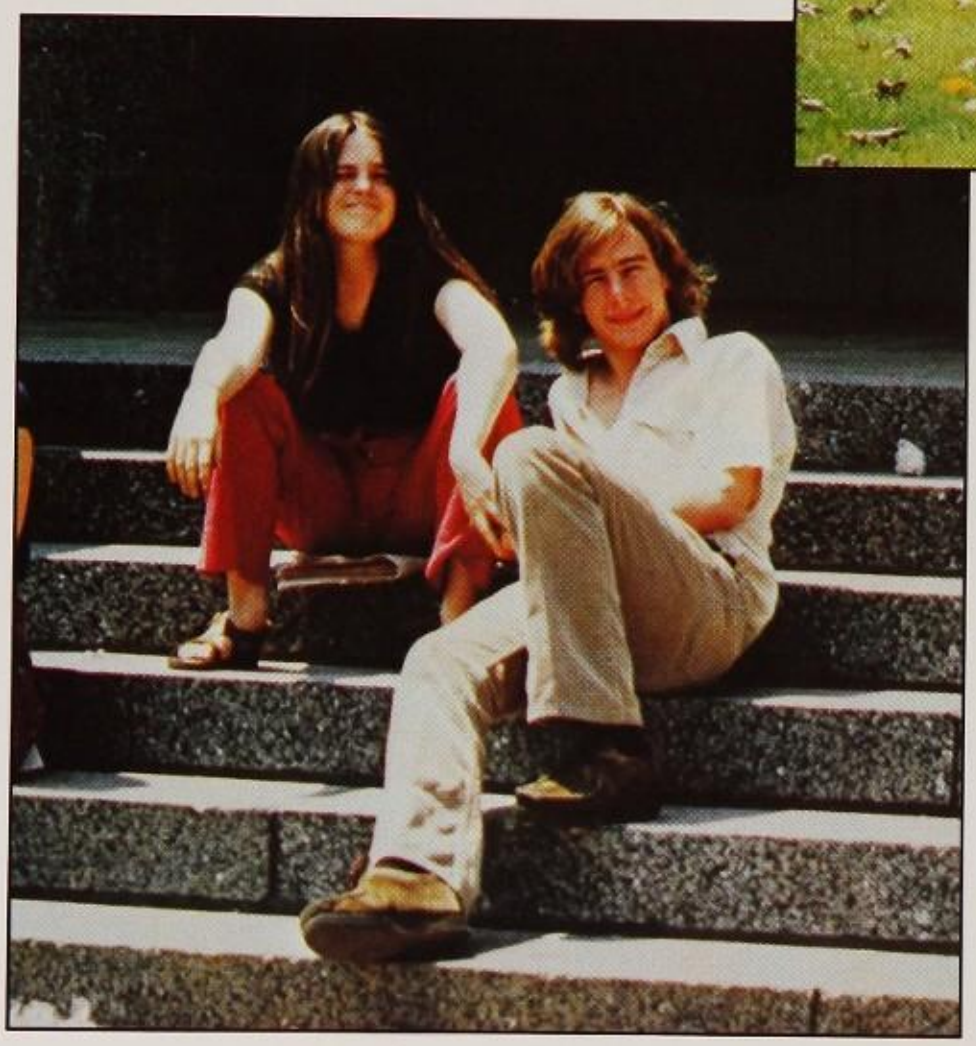
With the love, understanding, and car keys that our parents provide, we realize the importance of family life. Between meals, chores, and distant aunts, we come to appreciate the confidence and motivation that we receive in the privacy and security of our own homes. After accepting the fact that father thinks he knows best, we learn to shake the hand that feeds us.



From brief encounters we develop long-lasting relationships. As companions and critics, we raise our friends' spirits or deflate their egos. By building a bridge over sometimes-troubled waters, certain teachers break the communication barrier and become trusted colleagues. Close friends do more than bump into us in the halls; they leave a lasting impression.

Of the students, by the students, and for the students, the weekend is a declaration of our independence. As doorbells replace school bells, we organize our free time to enjoy our friends' company, our own company, or a dance company. With well-deserved relaxation, we celebrate our right to assemble.

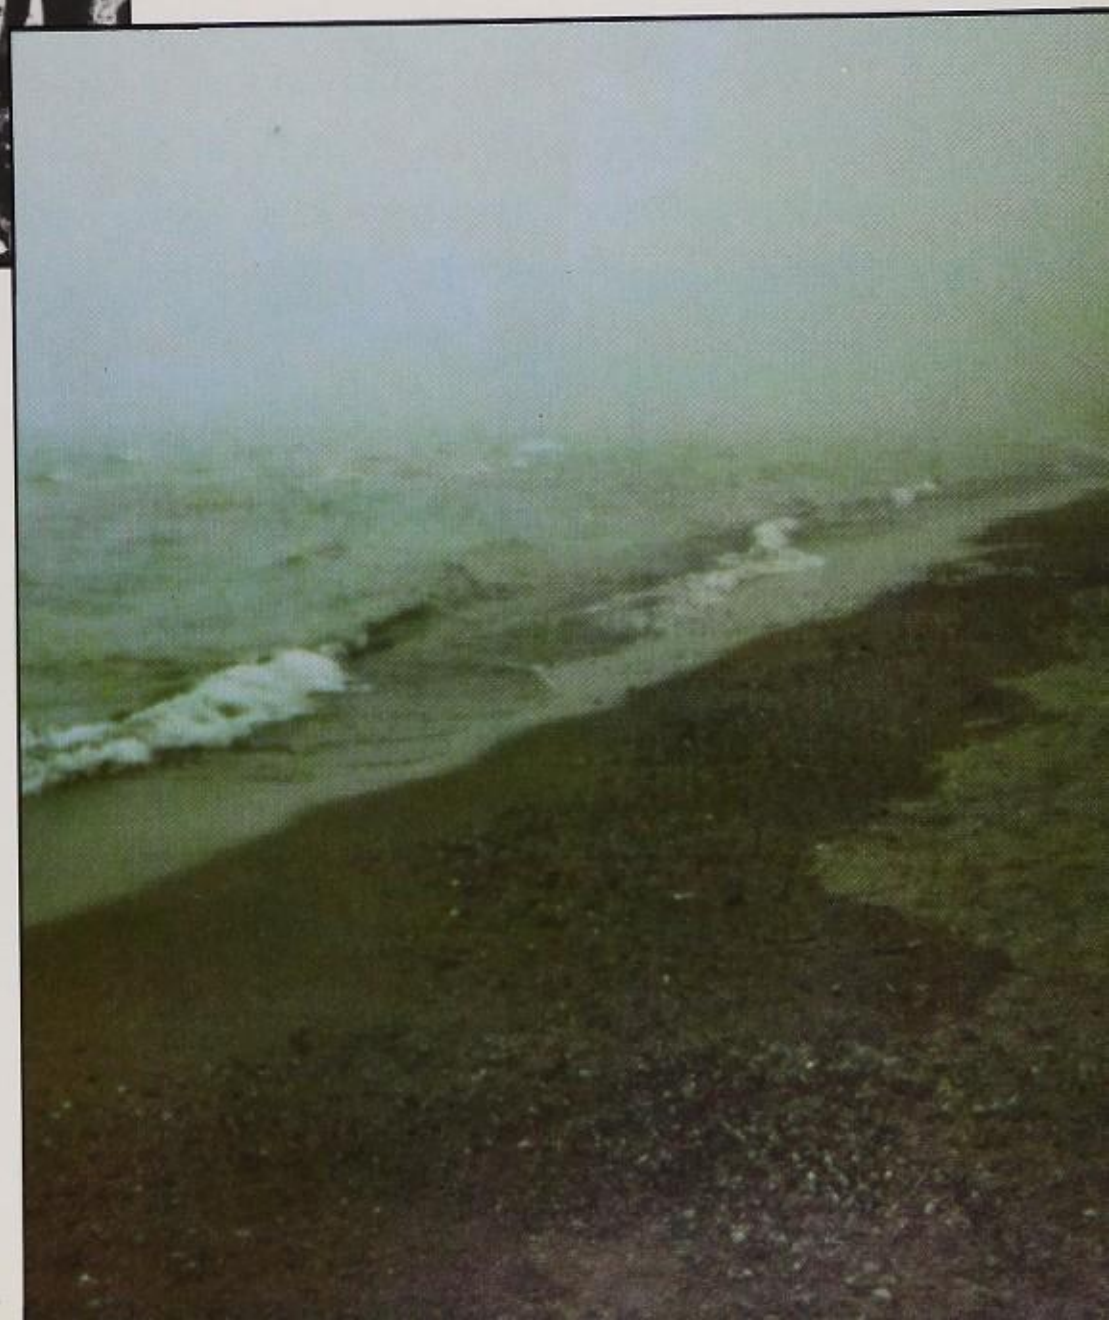
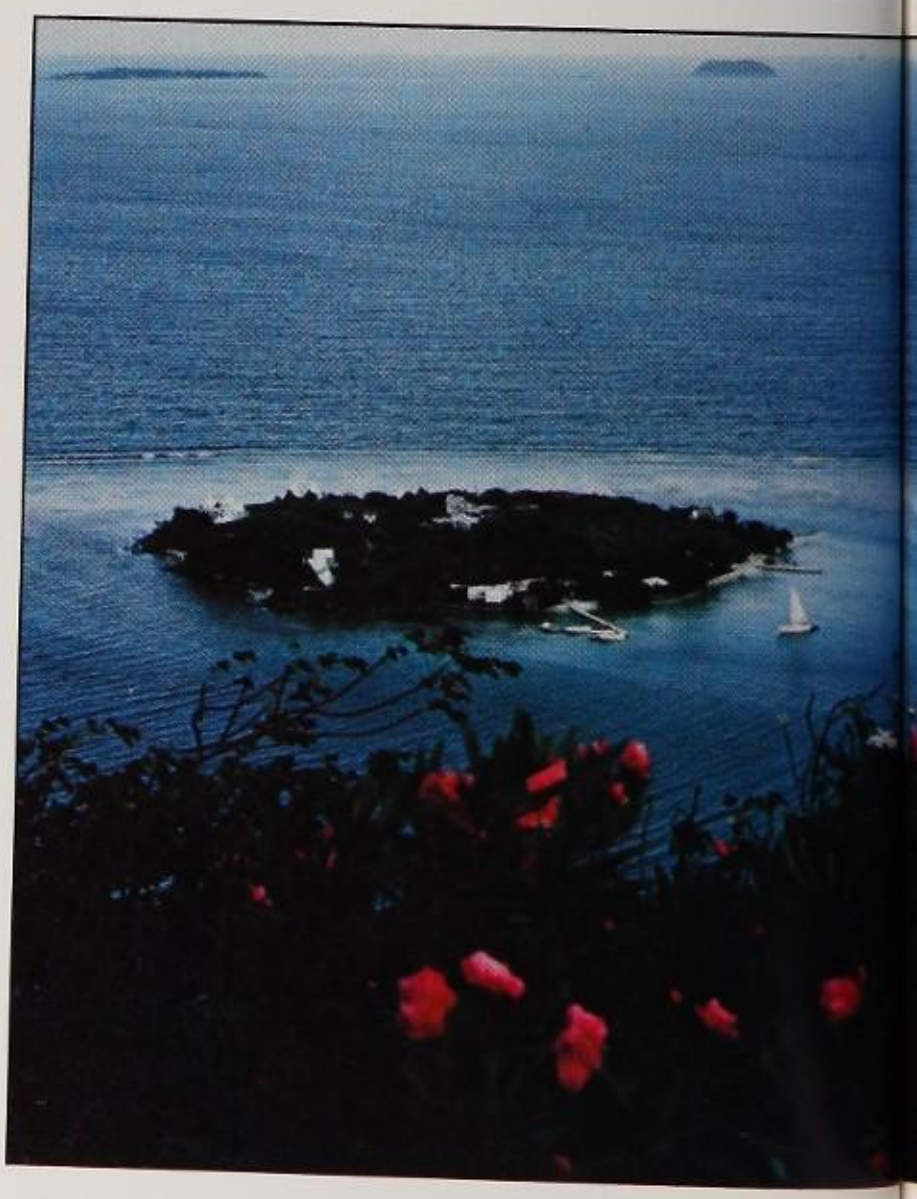
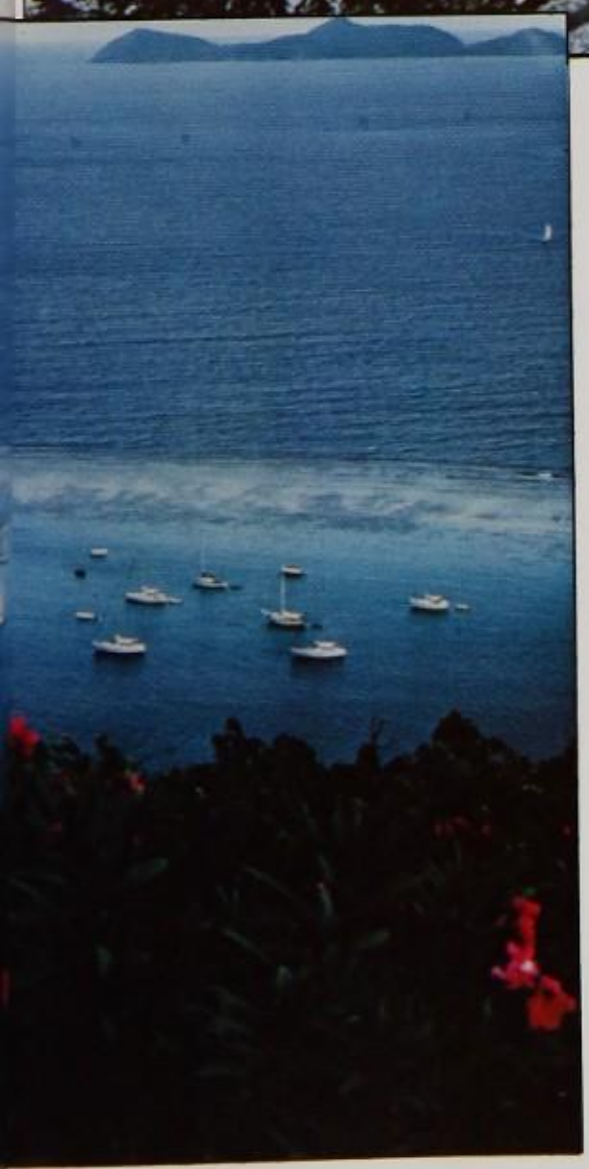
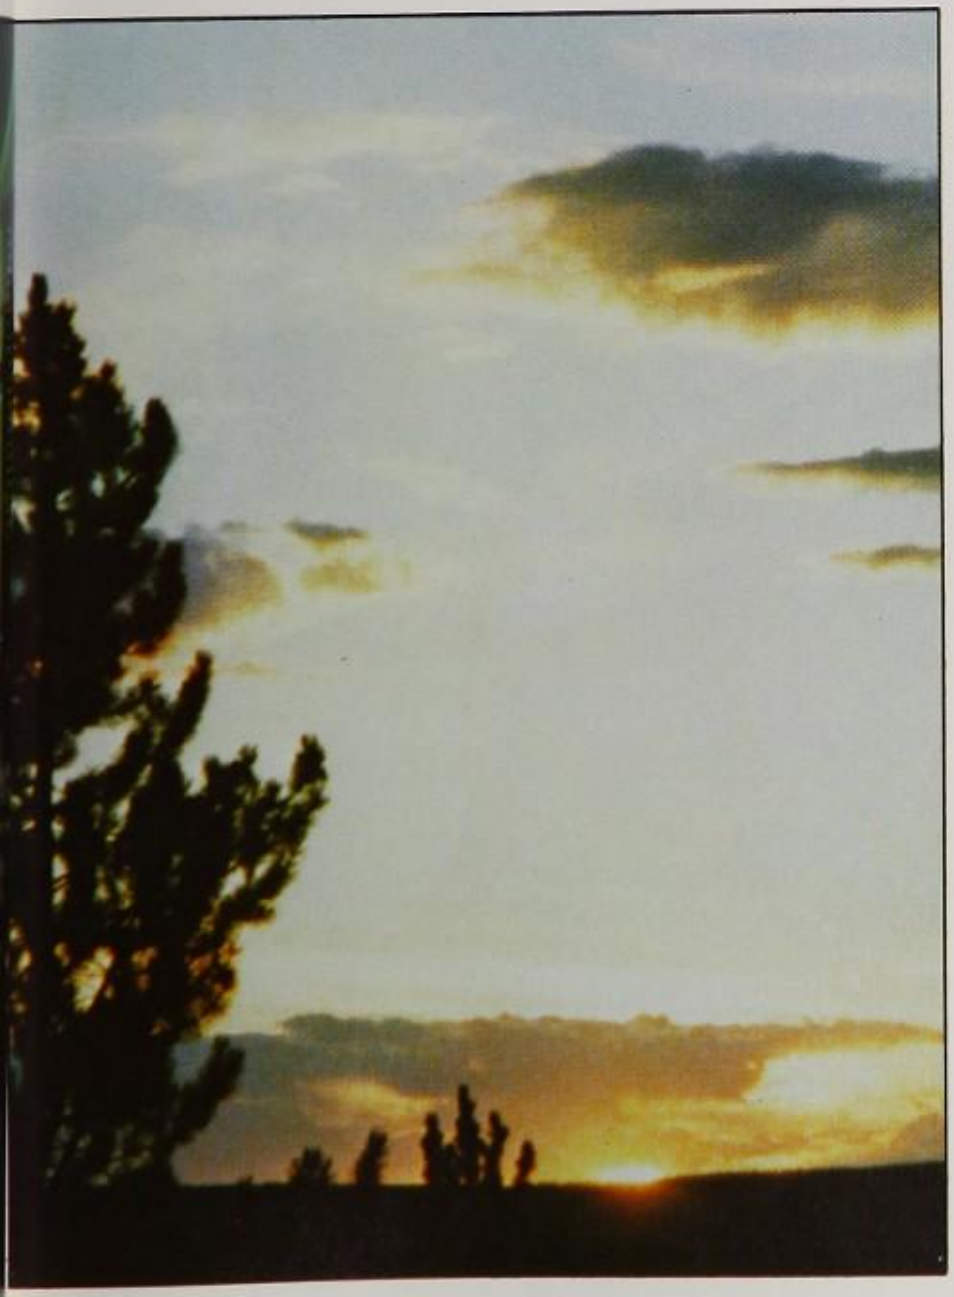
Trade winds from the city sweep cultural opportunities onto the North shore. From listening to Bach's concerto in D minor to watching Walter Payton in the T formation, we take advantage of the genius around us. With the constant circulation of artistic talent, culture inspires us like a breath of fresh air.



A great escape from the school day routine marks this institution's favorite institution: vacation. Venturing uptown, downtown, and out-of-town, we explore everything from spring skiing to summer school. During vacation, even the weariest revive and generate new interest in burning the midnight oil.







Success in high school comes from the satisfaction we feel towards our accomplishments, our failures, and our future. As we accept the challenge of meeting new goals, we become masters of our own destinies.

Club specials

Clubs 019-029, open to freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Prerequiste: Desire for friendship and diversion.

Clubs 019-029, a two-semester elective, is designed for all students who wish to further their involvement in scholastic subjects, hobbies, or other interests. Activities depend on the initiative of the students to seek willing faculty sponsors.

Students seeking intellectual challenge were well-satisfied by many clubs. Math clubbers attacked puzzling problems that covered all facets of math. Participating in several interscholastic competitions, they tested their understanding of concepts and principles. The ideal organization for students intrigued by strategy was Chess club. Experience in an intra-club ladder tournament paved the way for the club's success in interscholastic meets. Fascinated by modern technology, students explored the complexity of computers in Computer club. An input of several after school hours resulted in an output of computer savvy. As a small organization, Bridge club provided a casual atmosphere for mental exercise. Recreating famous battles and devising hypothetical conflicts were the two main objectives of Conflict simulation club. Each week students chose new lines of attack as they discovered the intrigue of clever planning. Astronomy club members met weekly to explore the wonders of the galaxies. Lectures about the universe kept students up-to-date on new arisings

Executive suite

There are two rooms at New Trier where tomorrow's executives and clerical workers prepare for business careers. In one room, members of DECA begin apprenticeships in basic advertising, marketing, and banking. Next door, OEA students train to increase their typing, shorthand, and filing proficiencies. DECA and OEA together form New Trier's executive suite.

After scanning the job market, DECA and OEA participants plunged into the professional mainstream. DECA students applied commercial acumen to their work. As a group, they encouraged donations to the Winnetka Thrift Shop, a non-profit organization. Integrating the fine details involved in clerical occupations, OEA students provided a valuable work force to community firms. Through ventures into the competitive business world, DECA and OEA students tested their marketable skills at local, state, and national competitions, hoping to win college scholarships. The executive suite offered an exciting chance to pursue an alternative course of study.

Working women

To be sung to the tune of "I am Woman."

They are women, hear them roar,
In numbers too big to ignore,
And they strived all year to reach a common goal.

They raised money, which girls received,
To pay for college entrance fees,
New Trier girls pitched in and helped with heart and soul.

"Oh yes," Gigi said,
"Our enthusiasm reigned,
Oh yes, we worked hard,
And look how much we gained!"

If they had to,
They could do anything,
They were strong,
They were successful,
They were Girls' club!

Crunch bars were sold around the school,
Three thousand dollars they did pool,
As committees helped the club to reach its mark.

Magazines were vended too,
They were purchased and renewed,
A successful drive for money had embarked.

Many cans they assembled,
Teaming up with New Trier West,
Thanksgiving did resemble
A feast of kindliness.

If they had to,
They could do anything,
They were strong,
They were successful,
They were Girls' club.

Friendly week included fun,
Sending grams and bubblegum,
Funny T-shirts, hats and oxfords were displayed.

Girls' club were happy with their year,
Raising money and good cheer,
They accomplished feats which couldn't be outweighed.

"Oh yes," Gigi said,
"Our enthusiasm reigned,
Oh yes, we worked hard,
And look how much we gained!"

If they had to,
They could do anything,
They were strong,
They were successful,
They were Girls' club!

Tri-ship enterprise

A resolution to recognize the fair sailing of the 1980 Tri-ship voyage

Whereas: The Canned food drive and Christmas tree sale steered the Tri-ship crew on course for another successful year; and

Whereas: Entertainment programs such as Casino night transmitted positive attitudes toward social events; and

Whereas: The worthy program Pride Inside was kept afloat by the determination of all the board to clean up the school; and

Whereas: The new concession stand made great waves with the fans and contributed to the pooling of funds for boys' scholarships; and

Whereas: Freshmen helpers and Usher corps sailed full steam ahead by displaying leadership and fellowship to their peers;

Therefore, be it resolved by the student body of New Trier East that:

Section 1: President Doug Ryan and sponsor Terrence Barton should hereby be commended for skillfully guiding the Tri-ship projects of 1980.

Section 2: This year's goals and accomplishments should be used to steer future ships in the right direction.

An extra helping

On their marks, statisticians stood ready to record the outcome of exciting matches. Getting set, Gymkana and Guard members assembled the equipment and reviewed their lessons. The whistles sounded, the children arrived, and the sportservicemen were off.

Donating their time, Sports service volunteers helped young children and New Trier teams to start off on the right foot. Guard sponsored Saturday morning swimming lessons and Wednesday night free swims which encouraged community children to breaststroke, backstroke and butterfly. For kids who wanted to flip, flop, and fly, Gymkana offered gymnastics instruction. Statisticians, mat maids and timers faithfully compiled the measurements from New Trier competitions. These dedicated students learned the rewards of teaching and the responsibility that leadership commands. Training future athletes and recording today's results, Sports service finished first in the race for athletic proficiency.

Green gray backers

Pep club, New Trier's spirit raising organization, highlighted its year with unprecedented changes. With President Maripat Loftus's outstanding initiative, the club hosted team breakfasts and sent congratulatory cards to athletes in an attempt to recognize all sports. Another amendment, eliminating the eligibility point system, encouraged participation in the club especially from juniors and seniors. By increasing sports publicity Pep club helped to fill the stands at both girls' and boys' sporting events.

Pep club also sponsored many social activities that sparked enthusiasm in the student body. This year's showcase of events included the annual ice cream social and a Thanksgiving party honoring all New Trier clubs. Sweet success from the Homecoming gram and candy cane sales helped Pep club to lick their financial problems. The diligent efforts of this year's staff expanded Pep club's traditional ideal of boosting school spirit.

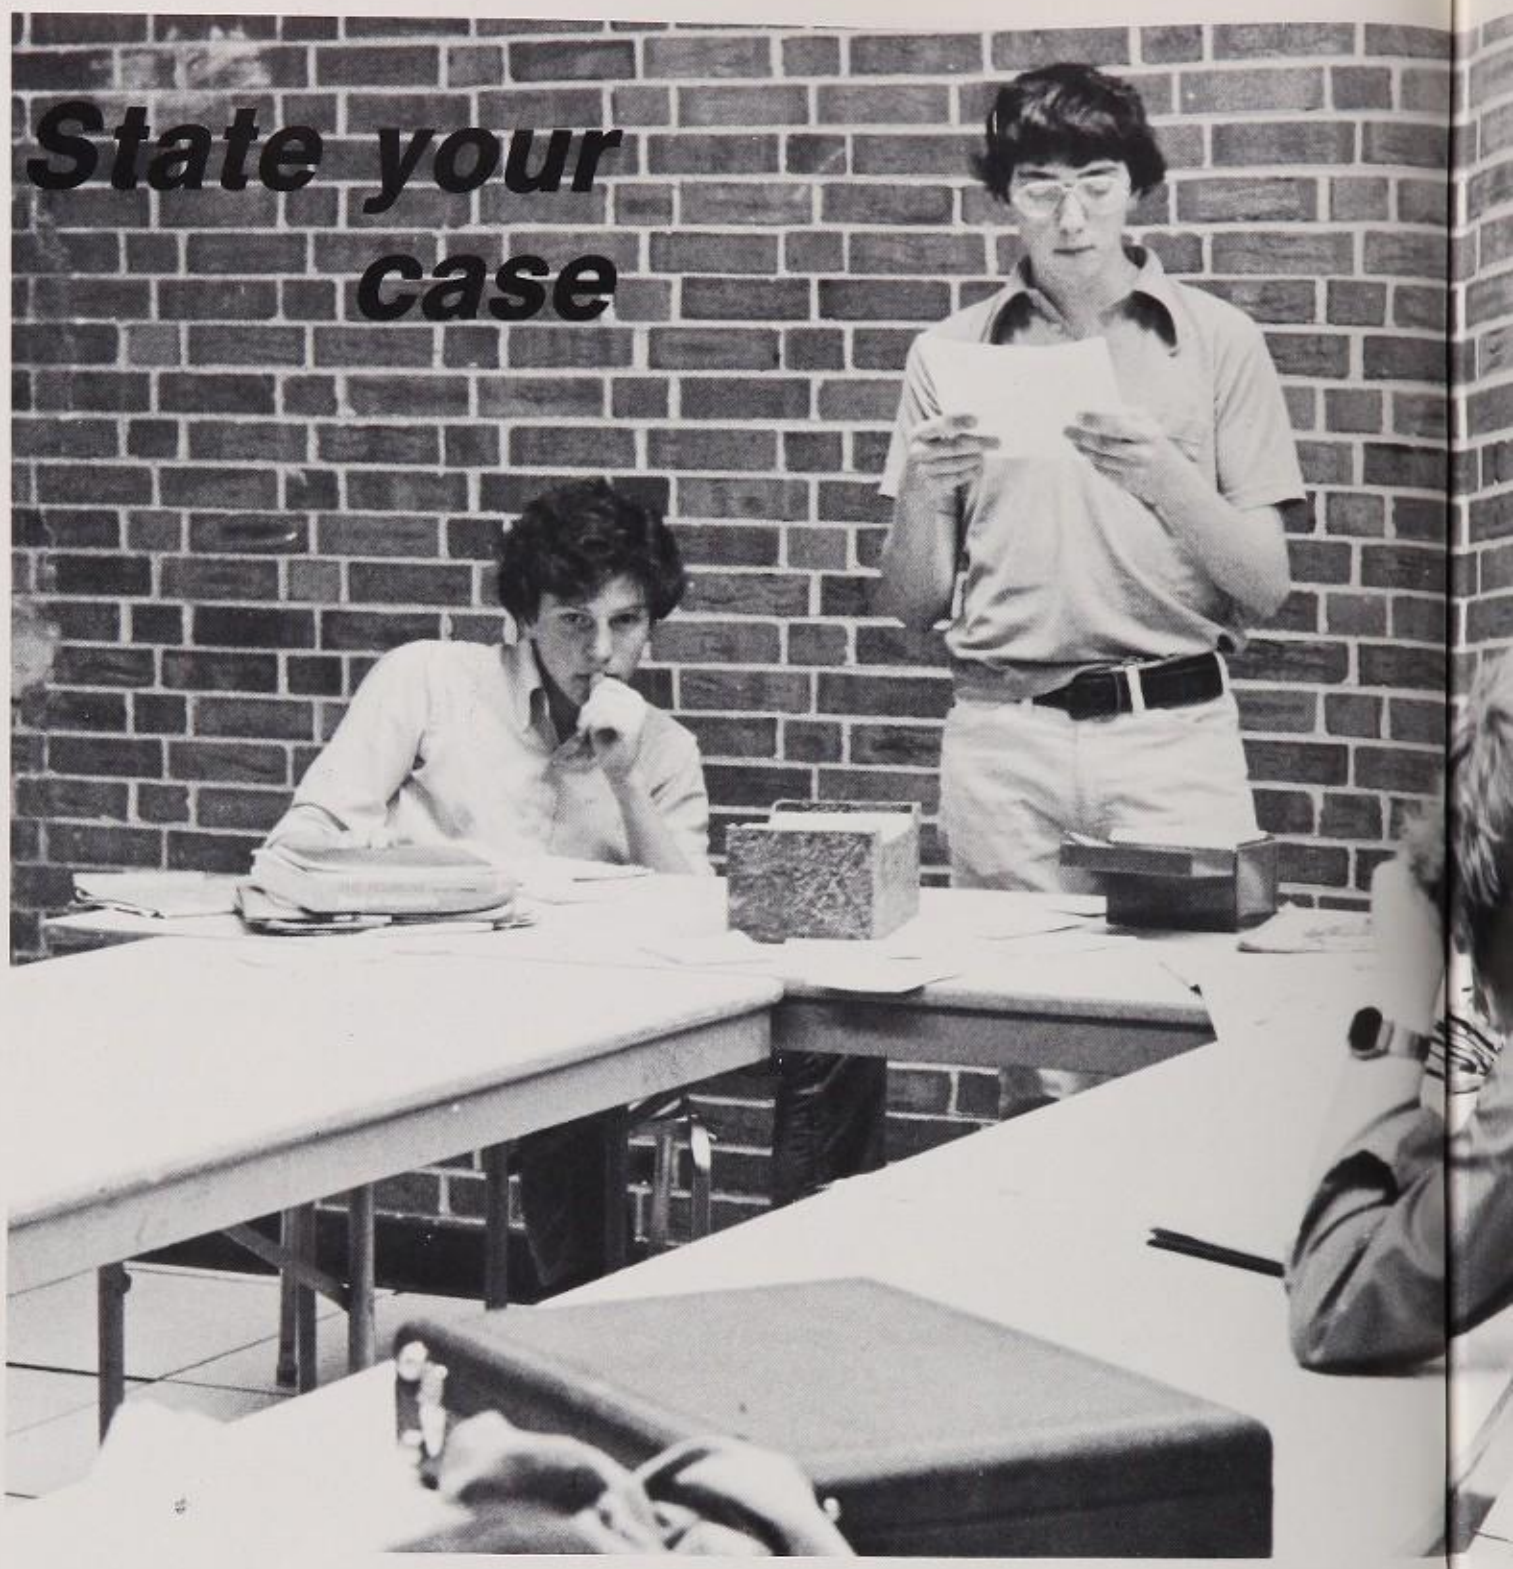
State your case



Military sales. Exporting grain. Aid to underdeveloped countries. Increasing or decreasing trade barriers. The question of significant change in the United States' foreign trade policy provided an abundance of material for another challenging year of New Trier East debate.

Collecting thousands of pieces of evidence necessary for competitive debate required hard work. The orators began by going to universities such as Kentucky, Massachusetts, Redlands, and Northwestern which were sponsoring debate clinics. During the year team members often spent as much time at the Northwestern library as many NU students and occupied public libraries for hours on end. Another time-consuming task, "up-to-datism," required that they keep abreast of all major publications and report on them to the class.

Team members displayed their expertise by placing well in all tournaments entered. This championship work was accomplished with the leadership of President John Weinkopf and Vice president Chris Murdoch. Despite their inexperience, the JV and novice teams included some of the best debaters in NTE history. When all three squads were combined, the product was a superior 1980 debate team.

The learning exchange

Although lifestyles vary from person to person, sensitive emotions are shared by all! Through open lines of communication and genuine appreciation for the needs of others, lasting comradery is born. In New Trier's Social service program, personal contact and mutual respect helped students to develop close friendships with the young and elderly alike.

Early in the school year Social service began an all out effort to recruit volunteers for its highly acclaimed program. With "Whenever I Call You Friend" as the theme, almost three hundred students brought concern and fellowship to participants in eleven unique groups. Three types of one-to-one learning experiences were tutoring school-age children in the inner city and local communities, providing companionship for senior citizens in nursing homes, and caring for young hospital patients.

In order to pay for activities and transportation, Co-heads Anne Alonzi and Holly Olsen coordinated two annual fund raisers. The Rummage sale and the popular Battle of the Bands provided money to send volunteers to their weekly destinations. Leadership and enthusiasm from all fifteen board members made each group a special, close-knit unit and kept the organization running smoothly throughout the year.

As a unifying and representative body, Student council initiated involvement within New Trier. For the second consecutive year, SC participated in Pride Inside, an effort to free New Trier of trash and vandalism. Plans for a cleaner school were acted upon as student volunteers picked up trash in the infamous cafeteria. In accordance with the boys' and girls' advisor chairmen, President Dave Buzard and his cabinet members worked to enforce school policies, establishing rules and agreeing on disciplinary measures. One recreational event sponsored by Student council was the Halloween party. Booths, gyms, and the swimming pool were opened for the students' enjoyment. Joining a national movement, SC encouraged students to write to the American hostages in Iran and mailed the cards free of charge. Together, these programs strengthened student government.

That's entertainment

We, the students of New Trier High School East, in order to form a more enjoyable school year and to occupy free time with educational and entertaining programs, do ordain and establish the Educational Opportunities Committee for the students and faculty of New Trier East.

The Educational Opportunities committee, established through the Program for Unassigned Time, outdid themselves this year. The twelve member board worked alongside President Patricia Regan and sponsor Miss Diane Stoewer to bring speakers and programs of wide appeal to New Trier. Controversial topics including Gun control, the Draft, Child abuse, and Save the Seals informed students about pertinent issues today. "Heaven Can Wait" and "Mr. Cub" Ernie Banks were box office hits at New Trier. Completing another successful season, EOC's efforts were governed by the tradition of hard work and ingenuity.

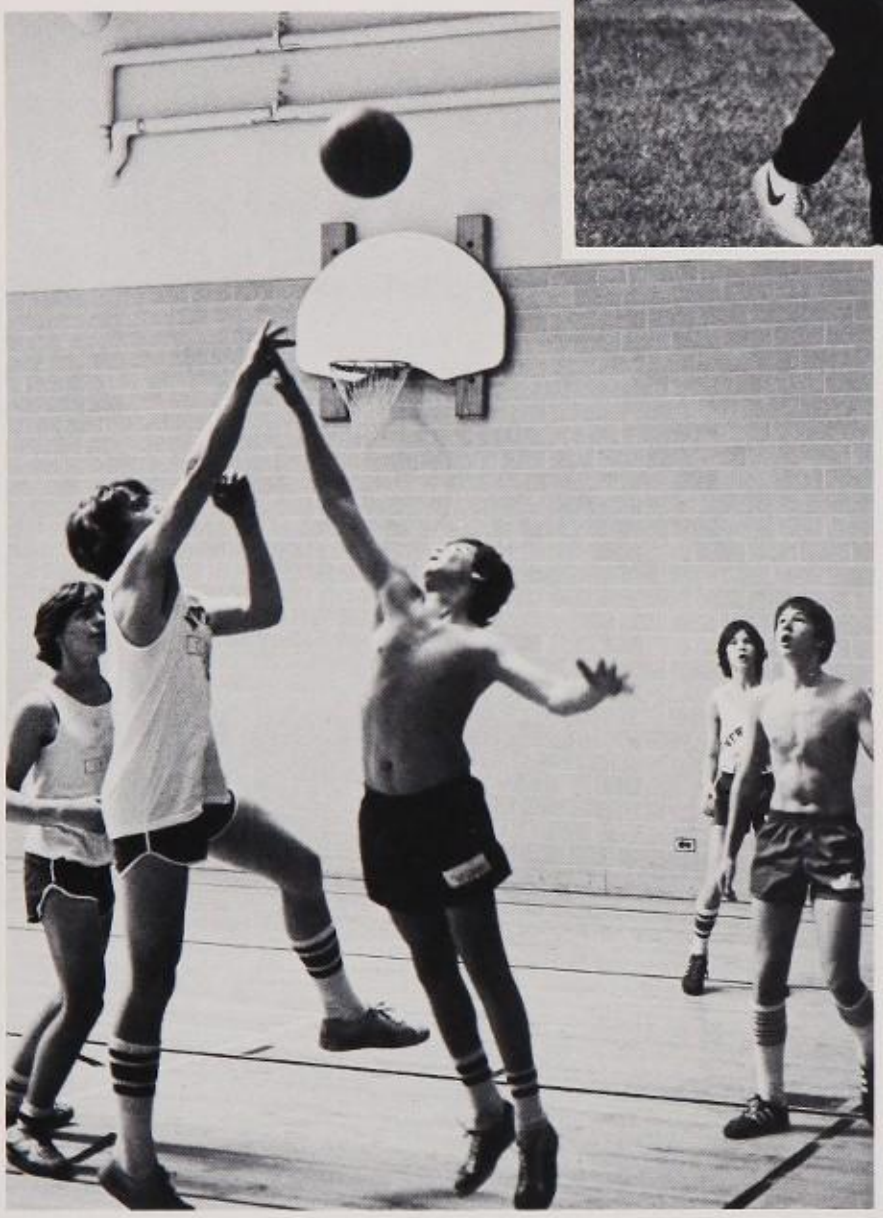
Sporting chance



A variety of well-organized and well-received programs led to Intramurals' most successful season in their five year history. The IM board established its goals in a written constitution that was distributed to faculty and students. To furnish many intraschool tournaments in an informal atmosphere, they offered a multitude of games ranging from foosball to football. Innovative diversions included girls' racquetball, a new activity on IM's roster, and a newsletter informing students of both past weeks' scores and upcoming events. During IM rec night New Trier's excellent athletic facilities were opened to the community. IM presented a recreational option to sports enthusiasts.

'Days Gone Dry'

While many people spent their summer days in leisure, the dedicated Lagniappe staff, under the guidance of co-chairmen Sally Husak and Mimi Kerwin, worked actively writing dialogues and composing lyrics. By the end of September, Lagniappe '80, New Trier's student produced musical comedy, was through its first stages and almost ready for production. This show, performed in early November, opened New Trier's dramatics season.

"Days Gone Dry," written by Sue Klawans, takes place in the 1930's during the Chicago world's fair. Iowa radio announcer Dave Corbett and his fiance Jan come to Chicago to see the fair and to visit his brother. However, their quiet vacation plans shatter when Dave becomes involved with Chicagoland's two most prominent gangs. Along the way Dave becomes interested in Frieda, a member of the Bressler gang, complicating matters further. Harmony is restored when Dave, unable to accept the life of crime, reunites with Jan. After the closing scene, the audience and the cast itself left the theater with satisfaction and eager anticipation of shows to come.

'I Remember Mama' and 'The Unsinkable Molly Brown'

This year's Freshman and Sophomore classes made their acting debut with the production of two famous and complicated plays. The young actors performed without technical assistance, lights, or scenery and received encouraging acclaim.

The underclassmen's opening play, "I Remember Mama," was written by John Van Druten from a collection of Kathryn Forbes' short stories. The play depicted Forbes' discovery of writing and the life of her immigrant family. According to director Mr. Edward Steele-Nicholson, the challenge was to blend together these separate stories. After integrating the plots, the players combined the emotional development of the characters with careful blocking techniques to make a hit play.

The showing of the second play marked the first time "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" was produced at New Trier East. Originally written by Meredith Wilson and Richard Morris, the musical was adapted for the New Trier stage by director Kathy Pingel-Powell. The plot centered on an optimistic woman who, after becoming a successful singer in Europe, miraculously survived the Titanic disaster to return to her beloved husband and small home town. The polished production reflected the developing talents of the aspiring actors.

After receiving an inaccurate report from the Battle of Bunker Hill, a small English town erupts in a patriotic fervor. British recruiting officers employ devious tactics to bolster their dwindling ranks, resulting in a humorous depiction of "merry old England" in Bertold Brecht's "Trumpets and Drums." The British officers utilize disguise and seduction as methods of conscription, causing many entangling love affairs.

Under the direction of Dr. Robert Boyle and his assistant Elizabeth Lane, the actors and crew produced an entertaining spectacle. The crew placed the sets on wheels to accommodate the fast-paced action. Realistic costumes were rented from New York to enhance the authenticity of the portrayed era. The color-coded wardrobe differentiated the upper class and servants from the soldiers, aiding the audience's perception of the performance. This unique combination of accomplished acting and technical achievements produced a memorable performance.

'South Pacific'

When roles were awarded, eager cast members looked forward to producing the perfect show. However, the following weeks of preparation often produced feelings of frustration. As director Mr. Edward Nicholson ironed out problems, the cast began to feel confident. Opening night's nervous jitters vanished as the curtain was drawn. The only emotion visible to the audience was complete composure.

The opera "South Pacific" focuses on the moving love affair between Emile de Becque, a French fugitive, and Nellie Forbush, a small town American nurse. During the opening scenes, Nellie tries to learn as much as possible about de Becque with whom she has fallen in love. However, upon discovering that he was previously married, Nellie's curiosity turns to rage. Her anger yeilds to worry and repentance when de Becque consents to a perilous mission well into enemy lines. The opera culminates happily with Emile's safe return and subsequent engagement to Nellie.

This year's opera was one of the finest productions of the year. By combining the best actors, musicians and dancers, all factions of the performing arts division were instrumental in the show's success.

As the auditorium lights dimmed and the curtain rose, the audience gazed spellbound upon the scenery. The long hours that the crew had spent working industriously below stage became evident in this primary moment. The spotlight revealed how effectively each individual prop complemented the others, transforming the barren stage into an animated world.

Energetic crew members spent many hours after school pooling their talents to build the complex scenery. For "South Pacific" the crews constructed a working shower so that Nellie could "wash that man right out of her hair." Felix the swan, a wooden bird built around a remote control car, enhanced "Trumpets and Drums." In addition to excellent acting, the magnificent sets drew the audience's applause.

Dance day

A burst of electrifying movement lights up the auditorium. Each performer, executing his part with an individual flair, adds to the spectacular show. Careful choreography and intense concentration fuse together to captivate the audience. This is Dance day.

Dance day's initial intention was to inspire dancers of all skill levels to perform original pieces. The all-day event, supervised by dance instructors Mrs. Wente and Mrs. Fassnacht, took place on December 20. After auditioning and practicing for weeks, the dancers were ready to perform. Traditional concepts and new sensations were presented in styles ranging from classical ballet to modern jazz. Achieving their goal, the NTE Dance department created an outlet for the dynamic spirit in every dancer.

GYMAGINATION IX

Gymagination: A unique form of entertainment combining gymnastic skill and creative energy. In the ninth annual gymnastics show, Gymkana members captivated the audience with breath-taking precision. At exactly 8:13 p.m., the doors swung shut, the spotlight centered, and the show began. Highlights included Teeterboard, an act where vaulting performers rose to great heights, and Adagio, a series of co-ed routines with boy and girl joining forces to present graceful movement. A favorite of both audience and gymnasts was Flying Fanatics. In this humorous number tumblers surprised the audience by performing dangerous stunts under the guise of improvisation. Group practice under the direction of coaches Gerald Denk and Darlene Kluka and extended efforts by all performers made Gymagination IX an unparalleled production.

At the premiere of "That's Aquatainment," the 1980 water ballet production, the vote was unanimous that the entire cast had given an award-winning performance. Several weeks before even getting their feet wet, the performers were dabbling with potential songs and routine combinations. Student chairman Cristen Carter and sponsor Mrs. Bobbie Johnson helped newcomers polish basic stunts, while the returning seniors adapted to their top-billing. Lavish numbers including "The Entertainer" and "The Sound of Music" left the viewers star struck by the precise synchronization. The spotlight focused on Jenny Frei as she performed her solo, "Hello Dolly." A co-ed number added variety to the show and received a burst of applause. The big splash of water ballet 1980 left both swimmers and audience looking forward to next year's production.

In terms of enthusiasm and variety, the New Trier bands performed an octave above their predecessors. Countless hours of intensive rehearsals were necessary to obtain the precision demanded of each performance. Although the number of band members decreased, musical excellence flourished.

Under the inspiring direction of Stanley Ackerman, highly skilled seniors comprised the base of the newly created Wind ensemble. Expert blending of percussion, woodwinds, and brass culminated in a well polished, harmonic sound. The ensemble flawlessly presented its classical repertoire in four moving concerts.

Blaring trombones and brazen trumpets heralded the exciting performances of New Trier's jazz bands. Keeping time to a syncopated beat, they primarily produced contemporary music. The jazz bands, conducted by Miss Phyllis Clendening, highlighted their year by featuring Clark Terry, a noted trumpetist, at the annual Jazz night. Appearances by the Concert and Symphonic bands at sporting events, the Band concert, and seasonal Festivals enriched New Trier's offerings with the sound of music.

On a scale of one to ten, the 1980 orchestra scored a perfect ten. One high note of the year was the premiere concert which featured works of Beethoven and was highlighted by junior Tom Gilson's piano solo. The orchestra also gave outstanding performances at the Winter and Spring festivals and the Dance concert. After each successful concert, the members felt rightfully proud of their noteworthy ensemble.

Led by Mr. Stanley Ackerman, the group developed a fine reputation throughout the country. Practice both at school and at home was the key to the orchestra's success. Solo performances gave each musician a feeling of individuality, while group productions unified the players. By participating in the Chicago youth company, a highly esteemed musical organization, many members supplemented their skills. During the course of the year, the musicians combined their talents to achieve excellence in every production.

Green and grey often meant black and blue for other teams. By land or by sea, New Trier athletes put mind over matter to be the highest, the fastest, and the most accurate. A varsity letter showed the school's congratulations, but self-satisfaction was the athlete's true reward. Award - winning displays of team talent and individual commitment made us all proud to be from Indian territory.

Pressing charges

Due to the competitive nature of high school athletics, football dynasties are built on a foundation of expert coaching and strenuous practice. This year New Trier constructed a team based on these factors. Many exhilarating moments created a fulfilling season from all standpoints.

At the outset of the season, the Indians were ranked among the top ten teams in the state. Coach Eugene Cichowski was typically uneasy about his highly touted team since he had only four starters returning from last year. However, the Indians proved that they deserved their distinguished position as they trounced Loyola 26-0 in the season's opener.

With the victory came the injury of outstanding fullback Mike Bianucci that sidelined him for most of the season. The Indians also triumphed in the traditionally tough New Trier West confrontation. Talented linemen Rob Hediger and Morgan Herron formed the heart of the line that held the Cowboys to under one hundred yards rushing.

Defense was the key to New Trier's victories over Maine East, Niles West, and Maine South. Paced by the fine linebacking of junior Greg Beck and sophomore Harold Phillips, the Indians held their opponents to a total of 19 points. The tight defense registered its second shutout of the season against Niles West. The team proceeded to down Maine South in their Homecoming game. Linemen such as Ed Harney and Ernie Roth were particularly effective against the rush. Coach Cichowski responded to the defensive line's efforts by presenting them with his weekly award.

A powerful Deerfield team ventured into Winnetka the following week for the decisive battle for the conference title. Last year New Trier ruined the Warriors' Homecoming; this year the tables were turned. In a game characterized by unrelenting defense, the visitors won by a score of 13-12. Deerfield would have to falter in the following weeks in order for the Indians to gain a playoff berth.

The last three games of the season tested the Indians' resilience. After the disheartening loss to Deerfield, New Trier rebounded with three consecutive victories. The Indians recorded their third and fourth shutouts of the season against Niles East and Evanston, both by the score of 16-0. In the final contest of the season, New Trier defeated Waukegan West in a thrilling 13-12 overtime victory, eliminating the Raiders as potential conference champions. The varsity lived up to everyone's high expectations by tying for the Central suburban league championship. The future of the varsity lies in the hands of talented players armed with seasoned experience.

The underclassmen enjoyed equally rewarding seasons. The Sophomores finished with a 5-4 record, an inaccurate indication of their overall play since they never lost by more than six points. Coach Jim Wagner stressed the team's capacity for working hard. Steve Denison and Henry Bianucci provided a running tandem that has a bright future with the Varsity.

The Freshman teams also experienced winning ways. The A's were led by the splendid all-around play of Tony DiClementi and Dave Mulliken who played on both offense and defense. Despite a disappointing slow start, the team finished on an upward swing, winning its last three games to compile a record of 4-3-1. Like its counterparts, the B squad had an impressive season, concluding the year with a 5-1-1 mark. Karl Miller anchored the defense, which gave up only three touchdowns in seven games. Spearheaded by the rushing of Bill Tassey and Jim Wolter, the offense proved to be equally talented. The ability of the underclassman teams provides a good base on which to sculpt future greatness.

Aces wild

Netting a faultless season, the 1979-80 girls' tennis team gained the advantage on the court. Coaches Mary Jo Herzog and Hughes Davis based the training program on perfecting fundamental skills and developing all-around physical fitness. These workouts proved to be an undeniable success as the team pushed past their opponents to a 10-0 season record for dual league meets.

Through fine performances on all levels of play, the team demonstrated its extraordinary power and depth. Triumphs over rivals Evanston and New Trier West sparked the Indians toward a brilliant winning streak. After placing first in the Central suburban league, the team claimed the district title. Co-captains Julie Kirby and Juliet Naft qualified to represent New Trier in the state tournament as did the outstanding doubles team, Kim Hatton and Melanie Harris. Hard work and dedication paid off as the team captured third place in the state meet. In keeping with Indian tradition, the girls' tennis team smashed their way to a winning season.

Tennis is a sport so popular that it reaches from Wimbledon, England, to Kooyong, Australia. As both a competitive profession for world class athletes and a game played by weekend hackers, tennis is universally enjoyed. Fans throughout the world have seen this game of speed, endurance, and raw determination flourish since the turn of the century.

Just as tennis has grown internationally, so has it grown at New Trier. Five returning Varsity lettermen including Scott Lane and Jon Shepherd highlighted one of the most competitive squads ever. Featuring players highly skilled in both singles and doubles, Coach Davis' team dominated the Northern division and the Illinois State tournament. For all teams there are seasons known as "building years," but for the New Trier East boys' tennis squad, 1980 proved to be another year of superior athletic performance.

Road runners

As the multitude lurches forward, the runners attempt to synchronize their own pace. Running stride for stride and mile for grueling mile, they encounter many trying obstacles. One lone harrier emerges from the field of many, his overworked body struggling until, with his last ounce of energy, he steps across the finish line to victory.

The 1979-80 cross country team got off to a fleeting start in the highly competitive Central suburban league. From the word go each member had only one goal in mind: to win. The entire team possessed perseverance and poise, qualities that helped them set their goals high for a triumphant season. With the consistently strong finishes of seniors Mike Harrington, Eric Rosenbloom and Howard Hammersly and juniors Dan Alster and Jon Shepherd, the team easily ran to a 9-1 season.

The freshman team demonstrated its prowess by winning all but one dual meet. Outstanding enthusiasm characterized the more experienced sophomore squad. With this upcoming talent, future Varsity teams promise to remain at the front of their league.

"We just tried to put the ball into the net." It sounds simple, but according to coach Tony Schinto, this philosophy guided the 1979 varsity soccer team to a brilliant season. Compiling an outstanding record of 17-2-4, the booters recorded nine shutouts and played an incredible twenty-one consecutive games without loss. Although star fullback Eric Schultz was sidelined due to injury, the defense allowed their opponents only twenty goals. Powerful midfielders Kevin Kullby, John Marquardt, Greg Rossiter, and Jeff Miller provided optimum ball control. With Tim Daniels and Mike Gately highlighting the offensive line, high scorers Marquardt and Kullby led the team to a record seventy-one season goals. Superior performances were recognized when six players were named all-conference. Of these players Kullby and goalie Kyle Leonard won places on the all-state team. Strong individual play coupled with outstanding team effort promised the Varsity a high place in the finals.

Victories over Highland Park and Glenbrook North opened the subsectionals for the Indians. They proceeded to win the following three games in the sectional tournament, including a quadruple overtime victory against Lake Forest. The booters defeated Quigley in the quarter finals and Bowen in the semifinals to place second in the state championship.

Twenty-six goals and nine straight undefeated games highlighted the JV soccer squad's outstanding season. Due to the team's small size, coach Earl Schabel individualized his training methods to allow each team member time for improvement. With accelerated performances the JV squad emerged from competition ranked first in their league.

According to coach Bob Ward, "good attitude and a lot of talent" proved effective for the Sophomore team. The squad's powerful backfield improved ball control and allowed only nine goals throughout the season. Balanced by a strong midfield and a quick front line, the Sophomores finished second in their division.

The Freshman A team played exceptionally well throughout the season. Coach Tom Garden switched the defense from a four-fullback line to a diamond formation, a change that rallied the team to upset rivals New Trier West, Glenbrook North, and Maine South. The Freshman B team's impressive season was marked by twenty-four goals and a 13-0 shutout. Coach John Cadwell praised his defensive combination and felt that the whole team showed great improvement throughout the year.

Par excellence

During the past fifty years, women's professional golf has seen tremendous growth in the quantity and quality of its players. Entering its sixth season, the New Trier girl's golf program has paralleled this increase with its growing participation and skill. The squad's steady improvement over the past several years is reflected in its impressive season records.

The entire team demonstrated determination and ability by winning four of its first five matches. Hours of demanding practice at the Glencoe golf course produced this success. Drawing on the guidance of coach Gerry Ryberg and the experience of veterans Sarah Wheeler and Gieriet Sullivan, the team advanced in the Central suburban league, qualifying for the District tournament. The undeniable talent of this year's squad built a strong foundation for the growth of future teams.

Title-ists

Strength, timing, and concentration comprise the essential elements any golfer needs to maintain a superior playing record. When he synthesizes these skills, an average golfer becomes a true champion.

This year's team, coached by Clint Carlstrom, developed these qualities as they coasted to a superb 9-1 record. Selected as the most valuable players, seniors Mike DeBartolo and Bill Madden constantly scored well, adding to the team's overall success. The steady play of seniors Clint Mabie and Hank Zanarini provided consistency and depth, while Andy Burns and Jay Dempsey furnished the additional strength needed for a championship season. After capturing first place in the Central suburban league, District, and Sectional meets, the Indians pursued the state championship.

Coach Earl Metzger attributed the success of the freshman-sophomore team to diligent practice. Talented sophomores Joe Bosco, Brad Heitman, and Chris Lindblad led their team to the Central suburban league title. Next year, the boy's golf team promises to maintain Indian supremacy.

Masked marvels

Displaying masterful technique, the New Trier fencers placed a cut above their opponents. Strategic planning distinguished this year's squad. Swordsmen Bruce Jackson and Stefan James established a strong backbone for the team, aiding the Varsity in placing second in the Central suburban league. Four fencers qualified for the Junior Olympics in Oregon. Two of these, Stefan James and Fred Rosen, placed first and second respectively in the State meet. The foilers' skillful moves and refined form supplemented by encouragement from first year coach Linda Ambrozik resulted in a second place finish in the State tournament.

All badminton players: It's coming! Our first meet is only two weeks away. With little time left for practice, we must make every day count. Our schedule includes several crucial conference meets: the Conference championship, the Arlington invitational and the Central suburban league meet. This year the stiffest competition for the Conference title will come from Maine South, Deerfield and Evanston. In addition to the regular home meets, we will he hosting an invitational. Returning lettermen Weezie Kerr, Martha Berlin, and Sarah Hanlon will be our star Varsity players. With our strength and experience, we should be a smashing success in the State tournament.

New Trier volleyball: a tradition of strength, excellence, and success. The powerful 1979 squad achieved excellence early in the season by placing third in the Indian Summer's end tourney. The team went on to seize second in both conference and district meets, ending its season with a record of 10-3. This success can be attributed to hard work, a positive mental attitude, and superior coaching.

"The entire varsity squad shared a very serious and intense attitude in everything that they put their minds to. As a result, the team showed more strength in a variety of situations than many past squads." Proving the credibility of coach Bonnie Beach's observations, the self-motivated varsity team overpowered much of their stiff competition. The young squad was led by captain Sally Harrington and Betsy Baxter, who set dynamic examples of volleyball prowess. Adding strength to the team were senior Gigi Gregg's outstanding setting and junior Kate Crandell's awesome hitting and blocking. This year's team was unique in that the starting squad included three sophomores: Molly Kissinger, Liz Butler, and Julie Ryan. They gained valuable experience while complimenting their teammates' fine skills.

"Volleyball is a group effort all the way," stressed JV coach Kathy Rinehart. Each girl's personal sacrifice solved the squad's initial problems in working together and allowed the team to progress. With near-perfect skills and a successful joint effort, the squad completed an impressive year.

According to coach Lee Kennicke, "the freshman level is important to establish goals and feelings about the sport." Rugged determination helped the team to achieve a record of 19-1 and win both the Niles East Freshman invitational and conference crowns. With many fine players returning after a successful season, Beach compared future teams to a summer sun, "on the rise and hot!"

Stick 'em up

From a background of fall color, a lithe figure emerges and dashes across the field. Oblivious to the threat of her opponent, she raises her stick and swings. The ball reels past the defending goalie in a moment of illuminated glory. SCORE!

Over the past three years New Trier's field hockey team possessed the midas touch in the Central suburban league, compiling an incredible record of 39-3. This year's squad was no exception. Returning varsity standouts Heidi Zimmerman and captain Weezie Kerr capitalized on speed and aggressiveness to establish New Trier's offensive powerhouse. With co-captain/goalie Nancy Hirsch guarding the golden domain, Sarah Hanlon and Jamie Fry built an invincible defense. In her rookie year coach Vera Henneuse motivated the team to an exceptional 12-1 record. Tying for first place in the C.S.L., the squad advanced to the state tournament. After exciting victories in the semi- and quarterfinal rounds, the sticklers beat Lake Forest in overtime play to capture New Trier's first state field hockey championship.

Running mates

After months of monotonous running and weight training, the boys' track team was fired up and ready to begin the 1980 track season. Runners and hurdlers took strides to better their times, while jumpers, shot putters, and discus throwers stretched for new heights and longer distances. Directed by the helpful instruction of coaches White, Almaguer, Klocker and Sandborn, the team built upon their sound base of experienced distance runners Mike Harrington, Rick Rosenbloom and junior Dan Alster. Team captain Carl Sorenson also returned as did Clyde Kofman and Paul Piorkowski, members from last year's State qualifying relay team. Together they encouraged the tracksters and helped them with individual skill development.

According to head coach Jon White, the Freshmen and Sophomore teams showed the potential to be a leading Varsity team in both running and field events. When New Trier East and West merge, the combined talents from both schools should lead to a well-rounded and successful team.

Ringmasters

Anticipation rises as the gymnast concentrates on his upcoming performance. After the judge's final O.K., he sprints down the runway. As the athlete gains speed, his actions become smoother, blending together in perfect harmony. The awed spectators grow silent as he takes off into a perfect mount. In an instant the gymnast triumphantly completes a flawless routine.

Due to the efforts of determined athletes, this year's boys' gymnastics team reached peaks of superior performance. According to Coach Gerry Denk, the team looked promising from the start, as it was "the best team on paper in New Trier history." Bob Creagh had an excellent year with his pommel horse routine, as did Bill Alvarez on the rings. These talented athletes and others such as all-around gymnast Dave Norehad helped New Trier to soar into a winning season.

Bar belles

Spending their free time in the air, the girls' gymnastics team turned over new records at New Trier. They performed consistently well on the uneven bars and worked the stumblings out of tumbling runs. The gymnasts balanced grace with technical skills as they vaulted to gymnastic stardom.

Although the team was young, senior co-captains Debbie Stetter and Audree Nicholls were a powerful base for underclassmen to rely on. The team propelled themselves through sectionals to earn a strong second place finish. Sophomore Heather Sipe, New Trier's only female gymnast to qualify, placed seventeenth out of ninety in both the vault and floor exercise at the State meet. These energetic girls turned the school upside down with enthusiasm as they contributed to the athletic conquests of New Trier.

Hotshots

"Home sweet home" is an appropriate phrase to describe the fortunes of this year's Varsity basketball team. While playing in front of the home crowd, the Indians conquered every team but one. Their victories included a thrilling overtime win against a tough Lyons team. In equally exciting games, New Trier knocked off defending State champion Maine South and defending conference champion Evanston to ensure their first divisional crown in four years. In their lone home defeat, the Indians succumbed to top rated Proviso East by three points.

Beyond the confines of Leslie Gates Gymnasium, the Indians were a team to be reckoned with. Their second place finish in the prestigious Pontiac Tournament proved that they could compete with any team in the state. Led by Dave Curtiss, who was named the tournament's most valuable player, and senior Doug Pendry, who was selected to the second all tournament team, the Indians shocked highly touted Bloom before falling to eventual champion Quincy. With Bob Millikin's improved ball handling and Doug Ryan's tenacious rebounding, the Indians won six straight games to end regular season play.

Upon entering March Madness, State tournament time, the Indians found themselves in the toughest regional in the tournament. Unfortunately, their season ended abruptly with a tough loss to the Cowboys. However, with Mike Huff, 6'7" center John Gynn, and 6'5" forward Ed Harney moving into the limelight, the Indians are sure of a bright future.

Aspiring to maintain the high caliber of Varsity play, the underclass cagers finished respectably in their league standings. After a slow start, the JV squad improved dramatically, especially in the areas of rebounding and shooting. This turn around was spurred by the outstanding play of 6'4" forward Rich Maddox and 6'2" forward Ernie Roth. The season was highlighted by an exciting victory over Evanston.

With guards Andy Morgan and Chris Lindblad directing the court attack, the sophomores overcame individual injuries that originally hampered their performance. Three straight victories ended the year on an optimistic note. For the Freshman A team, 1980 was an organizational year in which they adjusted to the Indian style of play. The unusually strong Freshman B team captured second place in their league, losing only to Evanston.

Breaking away

A well-timed pass streaks into anticipating hands. The subsequent shot arcs toward the basket and passes through the net with a satisfying SWISH. A smile creases the face of the scorer, but is quickly erased by a cool air of professionalism. The trip back down the court is marked by an energetic pace, a result of the two-point gain.

The early loss of several key players prevented the Indian cagettes from achieving a quick start. Despite their initial weakness, the Indians showed steady improvement over the course of the year. Sparkling individual performances contributed to the team's progress. Senior Anne Tracy's 23 point game against Waukegan West helped to maintain her excellent scoring average. The season was highlighted by an upset victory over Niles East and a near win against Deerfield, a perenial power house. Coach Gerry Ryberg was pleased with the team's ability to cut their turnover average in half and with the increased rebounding of the front line, particularly of junior Kate Crandell.

The Junior varsity, paced by the superb all-around play of Nancy Leahy, compiled a remarkable record of 10-8. Under the capable leadership of Coach John Cadwell, the Freshman team earned an outstanding record of 17-1. The success of the underclassmen teams is the key to a sound future for girls' basketball at New Trier.

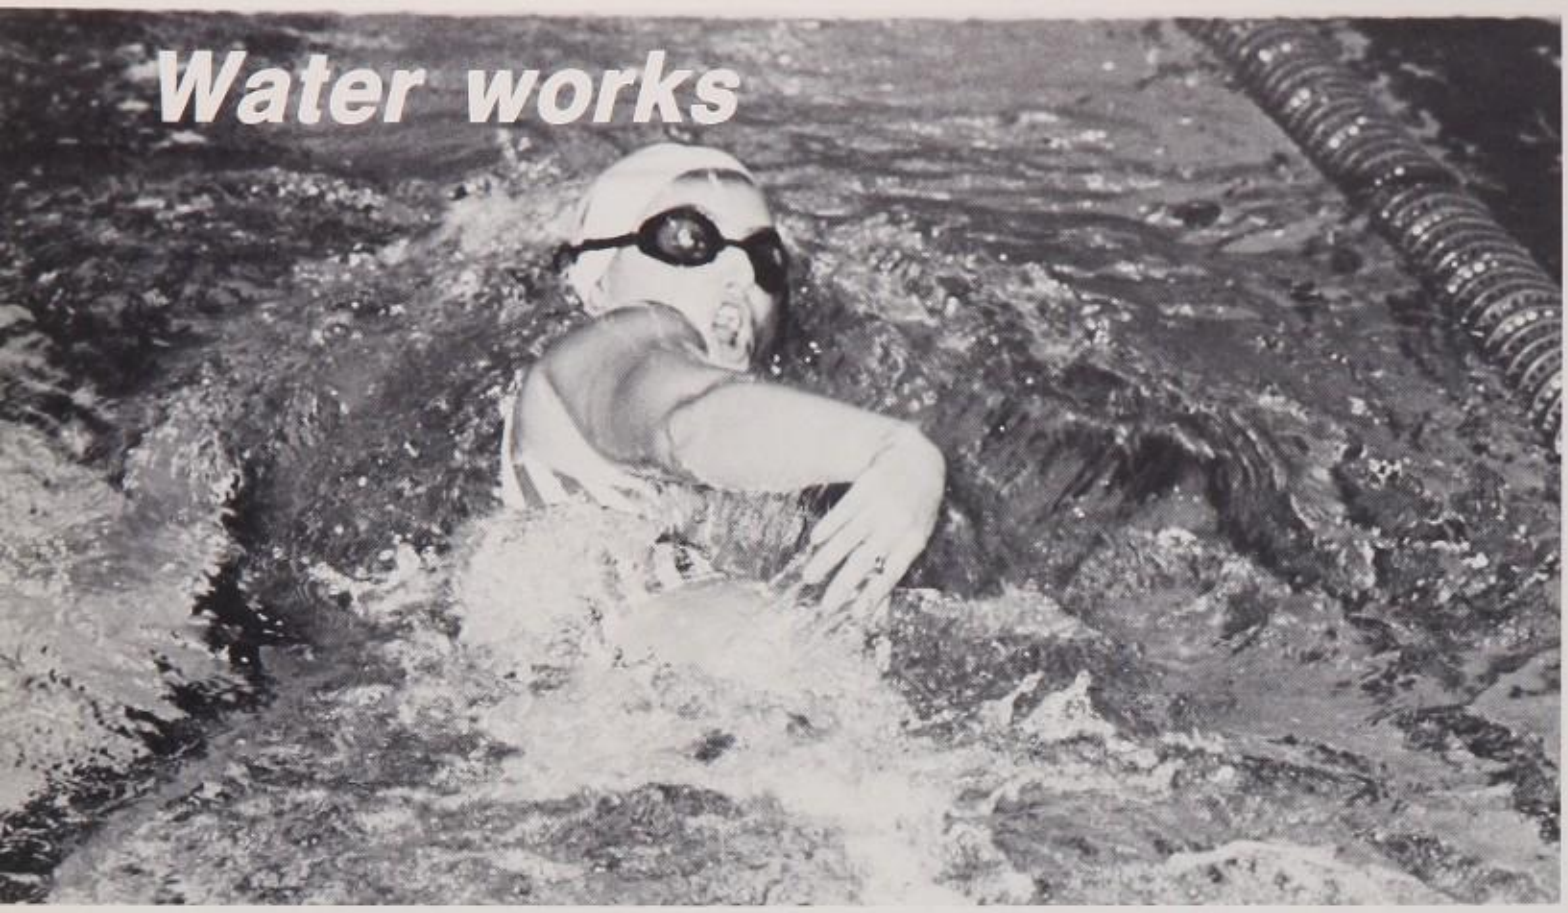
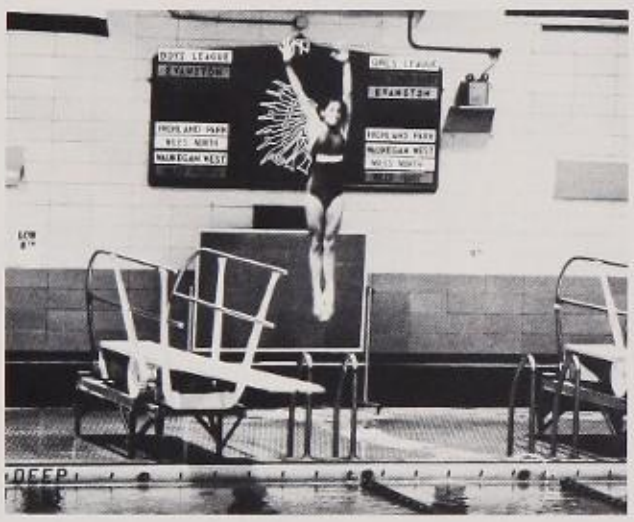
Water works





In lane one the New Trier girls' swim team prepared for its most challenging race. Speed, Endurance, Muscular coordination, Correct breathing, and Physical and Mental strength occupied lanes two through six. At the sound of the gun, the season started and the team began its steady conquest of these necessary skills.

Winning the Central suburban league with a flawless record of 6-0, the swim team displayed its determination to achieve nothing short of perfection. The Indians captured first place in their district and eventually advanced to the State meet, where they placed second to long-time rival Hinsdale. Junior Betsy Lind claimed first in the fifty yard freestyle, and the foursome Lind, Mary Kelly, Mary James, and Tana Bowen finished first in the medley relay. Diver Jane Alexander bolstered the Indians' winnings by taking second in State competition. Five members of the New Trier team were named All-american, an honor that placed them among the top thirty swimmers in the nation.

The high quality of the coaching staff contributed greatly to the team's success. For the twelfth consecutive season diving coach Arnie Cajet had a diver place in State competition, a feat practically unrivalled in high school swimming. Head coach Eric Matz worked his swimmers for five to six hours every day, building their endurance and increasing their skills. First-rate instruction and self-discipline enabled the swimmers to far outswim their opponents.

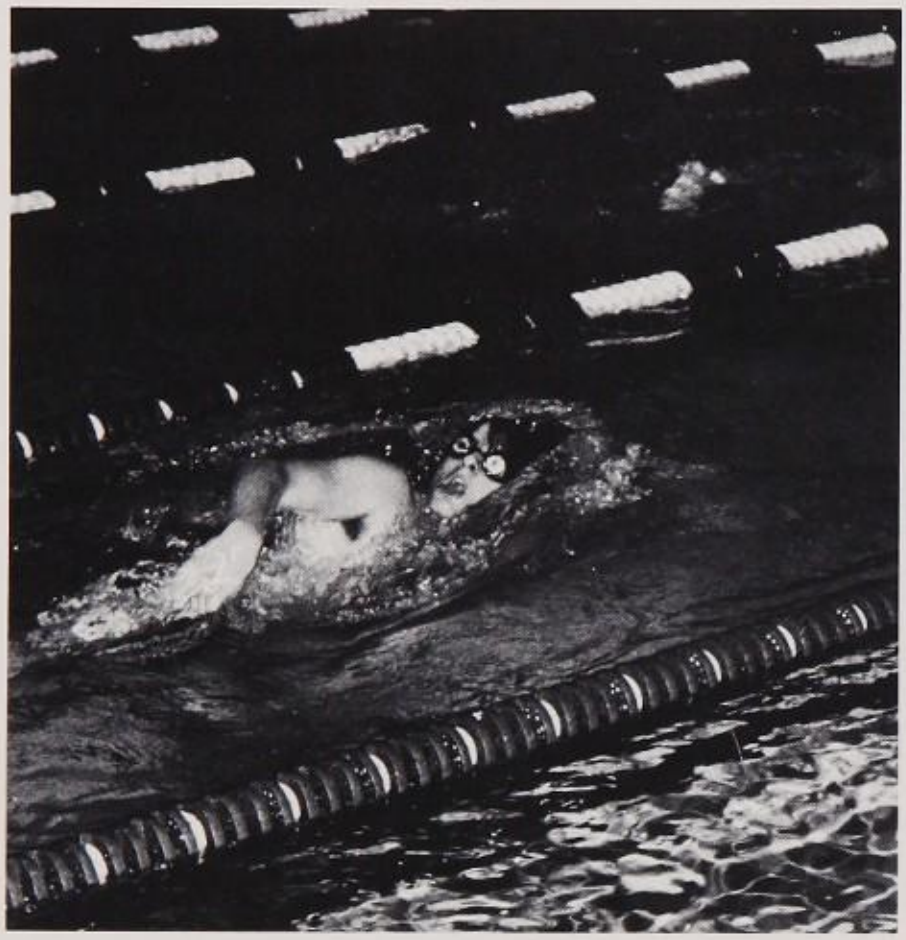
Pool sharks



In a sport where races are recorded to the thousandth of a second, time becomes precious. Occasionally, races are so close that the winner can be determined by the length of a swimmer's hair. Time also means hard workouts early in the morning and late in the afternoon. Invariably, the clock moves too slowly for the weekday swimmer but much too quickly for the weekend racer.

Led by captains Steve Ashmore, Sumner Mead, and Burr Martin, the boys' swim team improved steadily as the year progressed. Despite a slow start, they ended the season with second place in the Central suburban league. After capturing second in the Districts, the Varsity sent seven swimmers and two relay teams to the State meet. Notable performances by Ashmore and the four hundred yard relay team highlighted the squad's seventh place finish in a field of ninety-three teams.

Todd Folkl and Doug Allen headed coach Arnie Cajet's diving squad which performed well throughout the season. Both boys qualified for the Districts where they earned seats in the State tournament. Folkl went on to finish a strong fifth in the State meet. In addition to the divers' accomplishments, coaches Mr. Cajet and Mr. Wolff were nominated for the nationally acclaimed Newman Diving Award that recognized the excellence of the New Trier diving program.

Speed racers

Months before the rigor of official practice began, several members of the 1980 girls' track team were gearing up for a winning season. Frequent visits to the weight cages and grueling exercise programs assured the team an abundant supply of energy for upcoming meets.

With the returning Varsity members leading the way, all of the enthusiastic athletes left the starting blocks full speed ahead. An impressive win over Lindbloom set the pace for an exciting season. While captain Katy Maguire encouraged the team's unyielding drive for victory, coaches Mr. Schulz and Mr. Stewart kept them striving "to achieve their personal best." Strong performances in both track and field events sparked hope of a trip downstate for a few veteran runners. When the season came to a halt, it was clear that New Trier's track team would continue to pull ahead in years to come.

Crosse country

The lacrosse team began practice with an active desire to come out on top. With help from Coach McFadzean, they brewed up a sure-fire game plan. Bubbling with optimism, they burst into a year of fiery competition. An explosive style of play characterized returning starter Rex Balz, Mark Brandon, and John O'Brien, who made up the club's core. The hot hands of goaltender Jack Coladarci and the overflowing enthusiasm of up and coming juniors Tor Solberg and John O'Rourke helped the team to proceed unchecked. Besides facing several local rivals including New Trier West, LaGrange, and Oak Park, the squad hosted two tough teams from Michigan. The Indians watched the dreams of other teams melt away as they rushed toward a repeat of last year's undefeated season.

Wrestling is a grueling sport in which only the hardiest survive. The wrestler must rely solely on his own physical attributes since no other athletes assist him during the match.

Months of counting calories, weeks of strenuous workouts, and miles of pavement pounding produced a first rate Varsity team, described by head coach Mr. Galea as, "A hardworking group of athletes that wrestled as individuals but were all concerned with the well-being of their fellow athletes." Led by talented co-captains Jeff Stanzler and Jeff Ransom and outstanding wrestler Greg Beck, the team showed consistency in forging a 14-5 season record, the best in the past decade.

This year's Junior Varsity team was a leader in its level of competition. The JV 1 team finished with a 14-4 mark while the JV 2 ended the year with a spectacular 12-1 record. Only an unusual surplus of excellent wrestlers prevented qualified JV wrestlers such as Mike Pateras and Mike DiClementi from competing on the Varsity squad. Despite the loss of their coach midway through the season, the Freshman wrestlers improved admirably. They finished the season with a 7-6 record.

Coming home

Softball, one of the world's oldest sports, goes unchallenged as the most popular game in the United States. Crowds of fans flock to parks and stadiums where it is played. Games of softball spontaneously organized on a summer afternoon have traditionally been part of the typical American scene. New Trier shares this enthusiasm for the sport.

Throughout his three years of coaching, Mr. Jack Benson has established the girls' softball team as a powerhouse in the Central suburban league. With returning all-conference players Barb Fox, Joanne Powers, Julie Taylor, and Ann Tracy, New Trier inherited a strong foundation for 1980. The team's overall hitting and fielding averages sky-rocketted as a result of the examples set by these experienced players. Based on a series of hit seasons, the Indians hope to make another play for the State title next year.

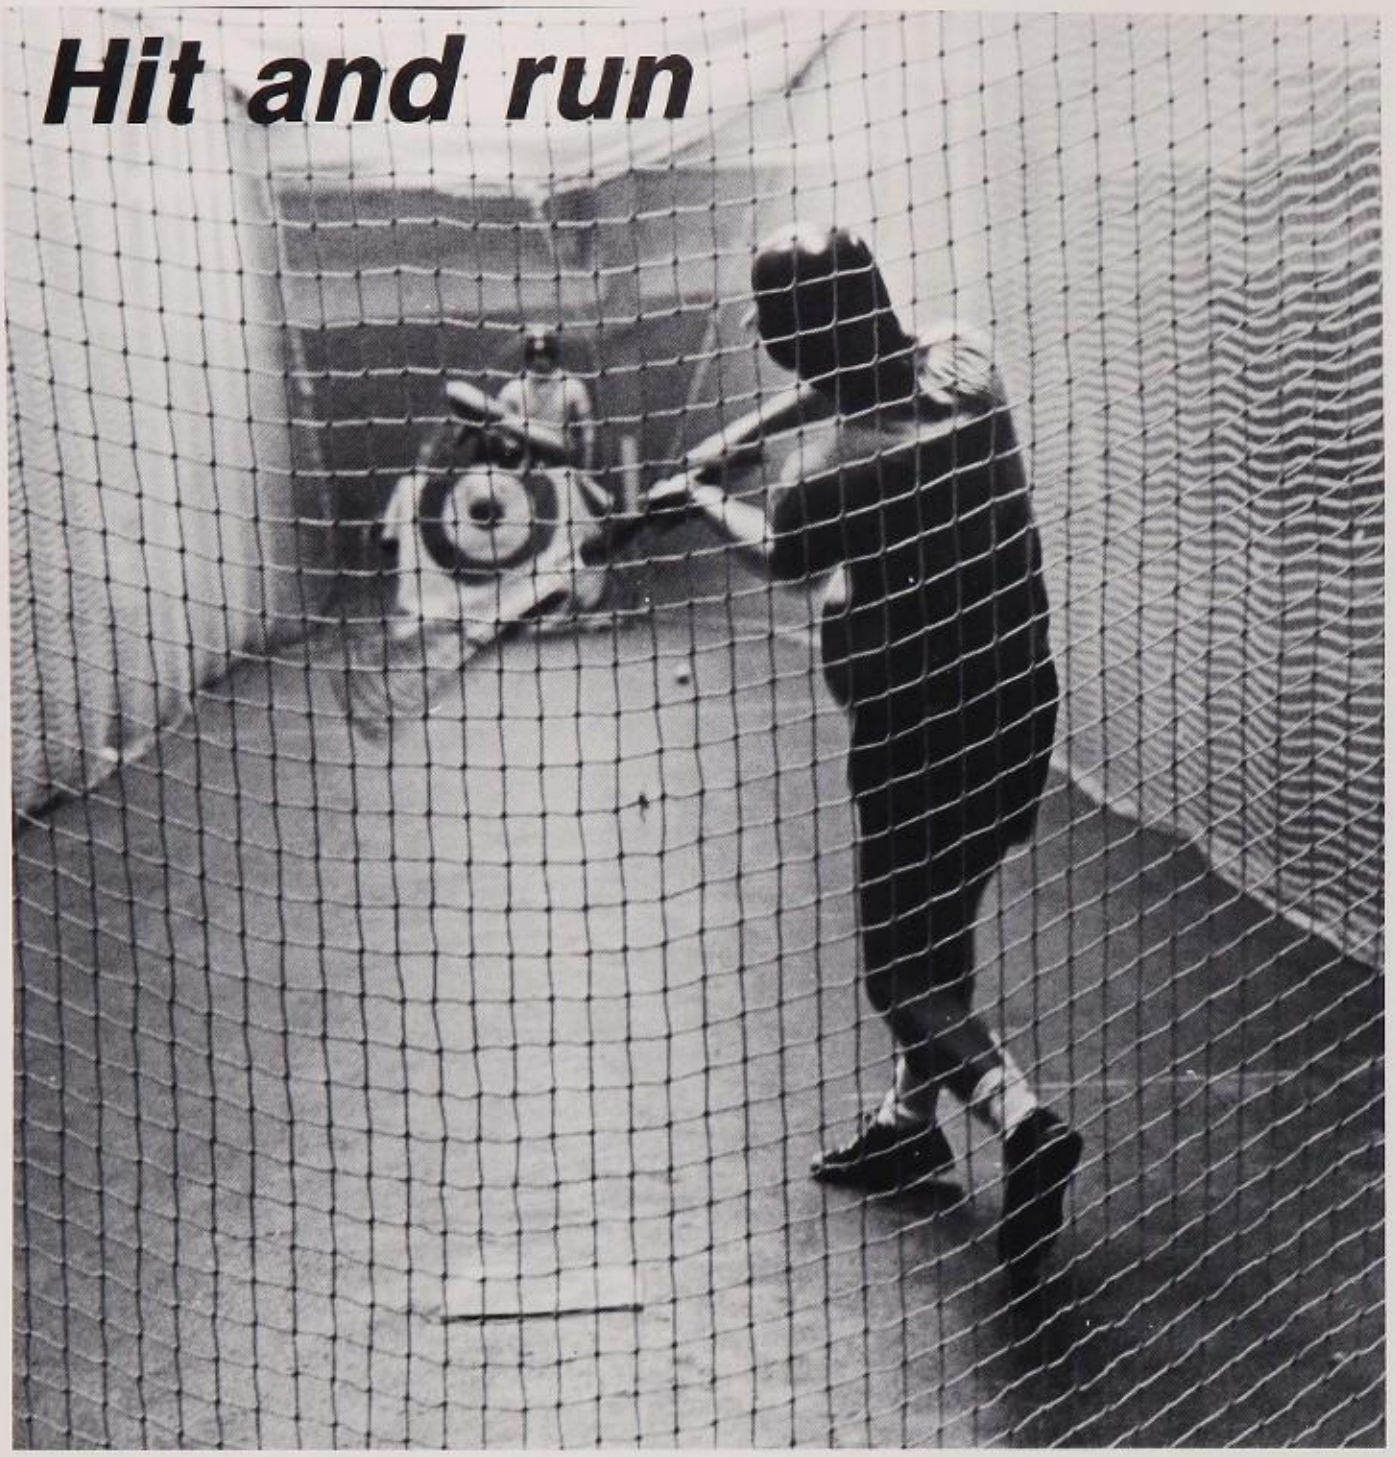
Hit and run



The pitcher winds up and sends the ball sizzling over the plate. The batter positions himself, swings, and drives the ball deep into the outfield. Backing up furiously, the left fielder chases it and hurls it to the catcher just as the batter slides across the plate. HOME-RUN!

The Indian nine had a very successful summer, emerging with a 15-2 conference record that earned them a first place finish in their league. Co-captain John Marquardt led the squad with a low 1.5 earned run average. With a team-leading .550 batting average, catcher and co-captain Mike Black helped his teammates achieve an impressive .349 batting average. Second baseman Ron Klein and first baseman Morgan Herron let few grounders elude their gloves. These players provided both a good defense and offense which helped them to outscore their opponents.

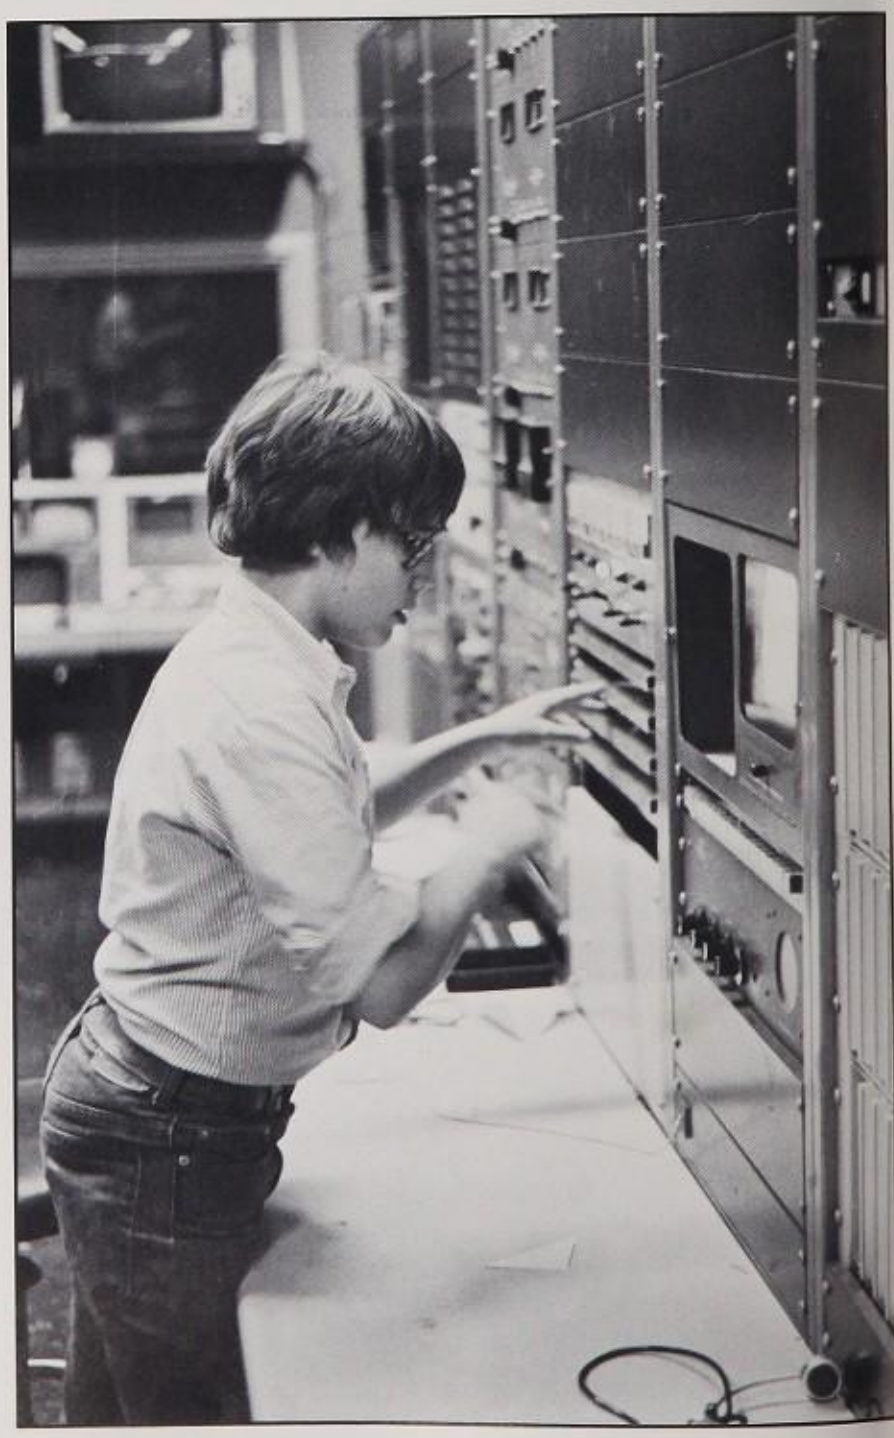
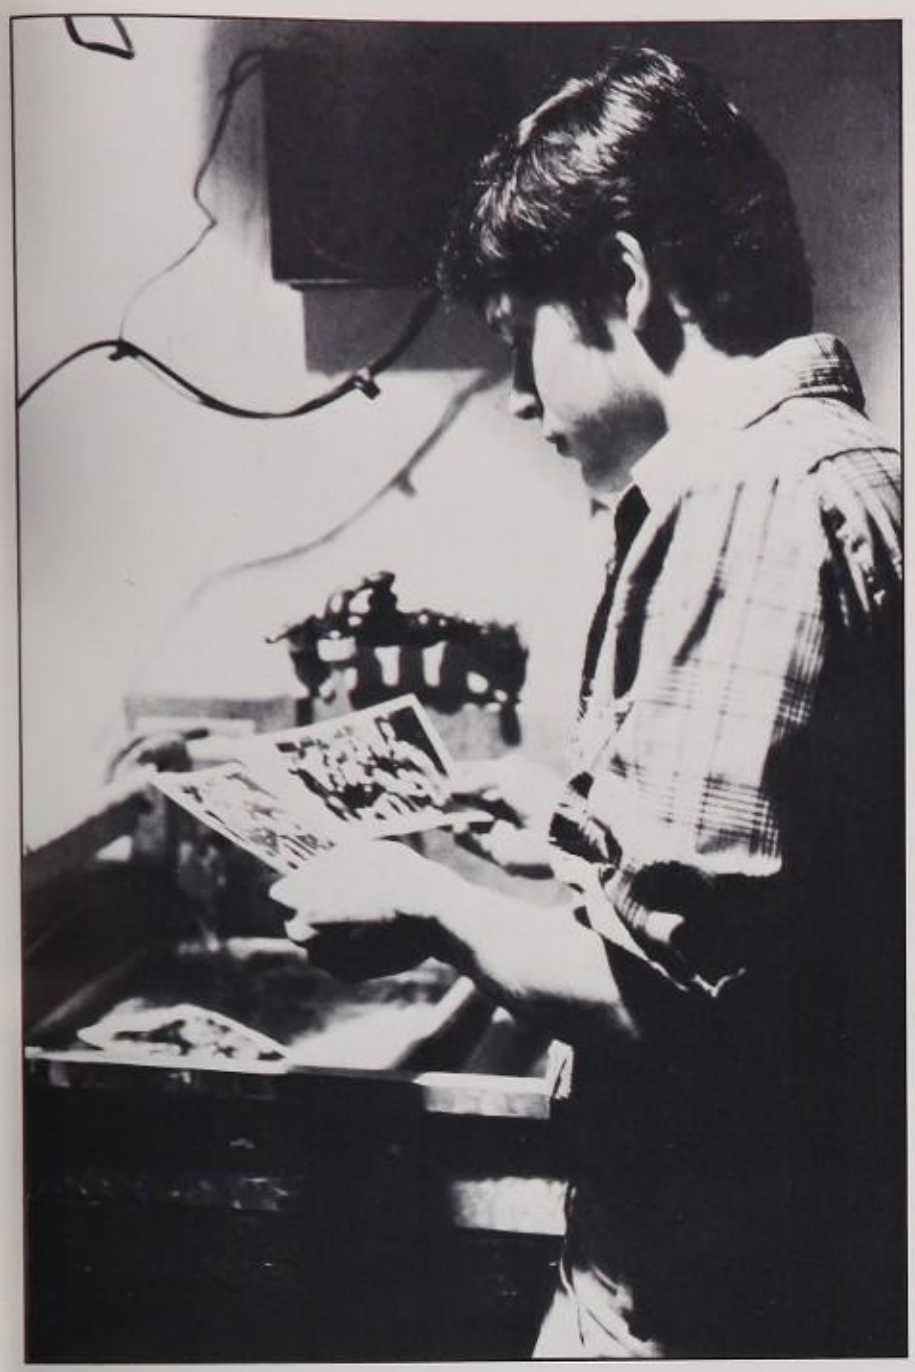
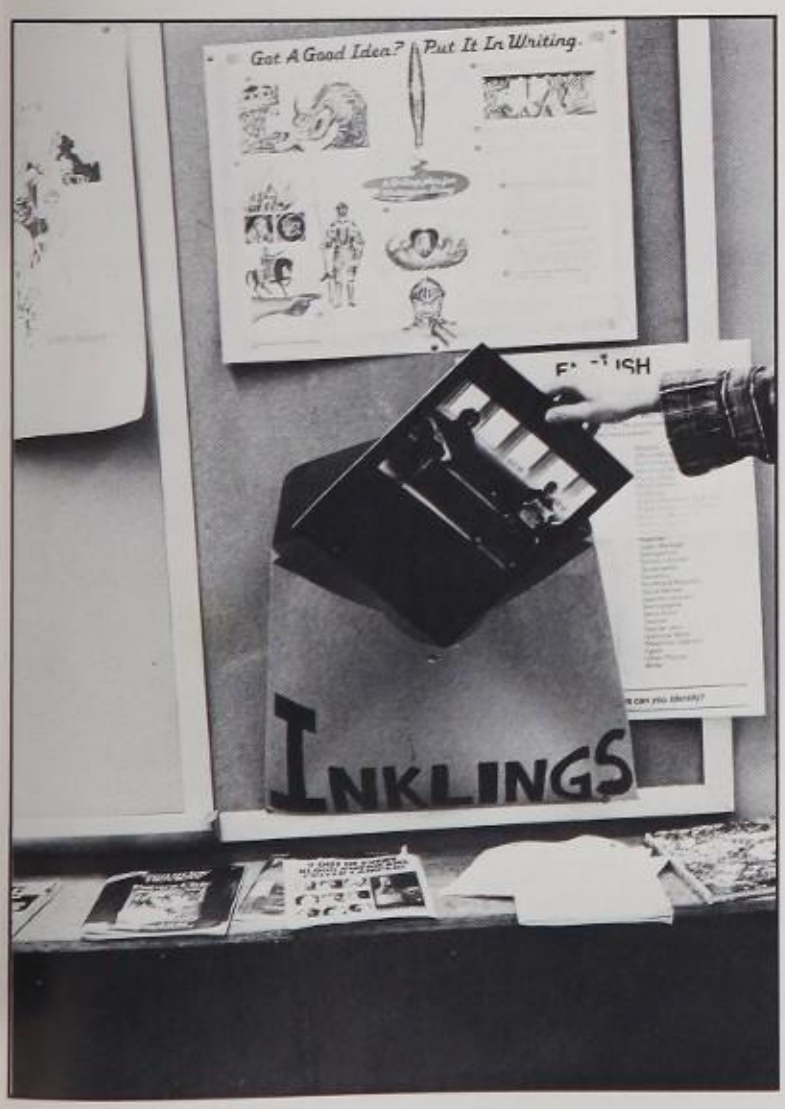
COMMUNICATIONS

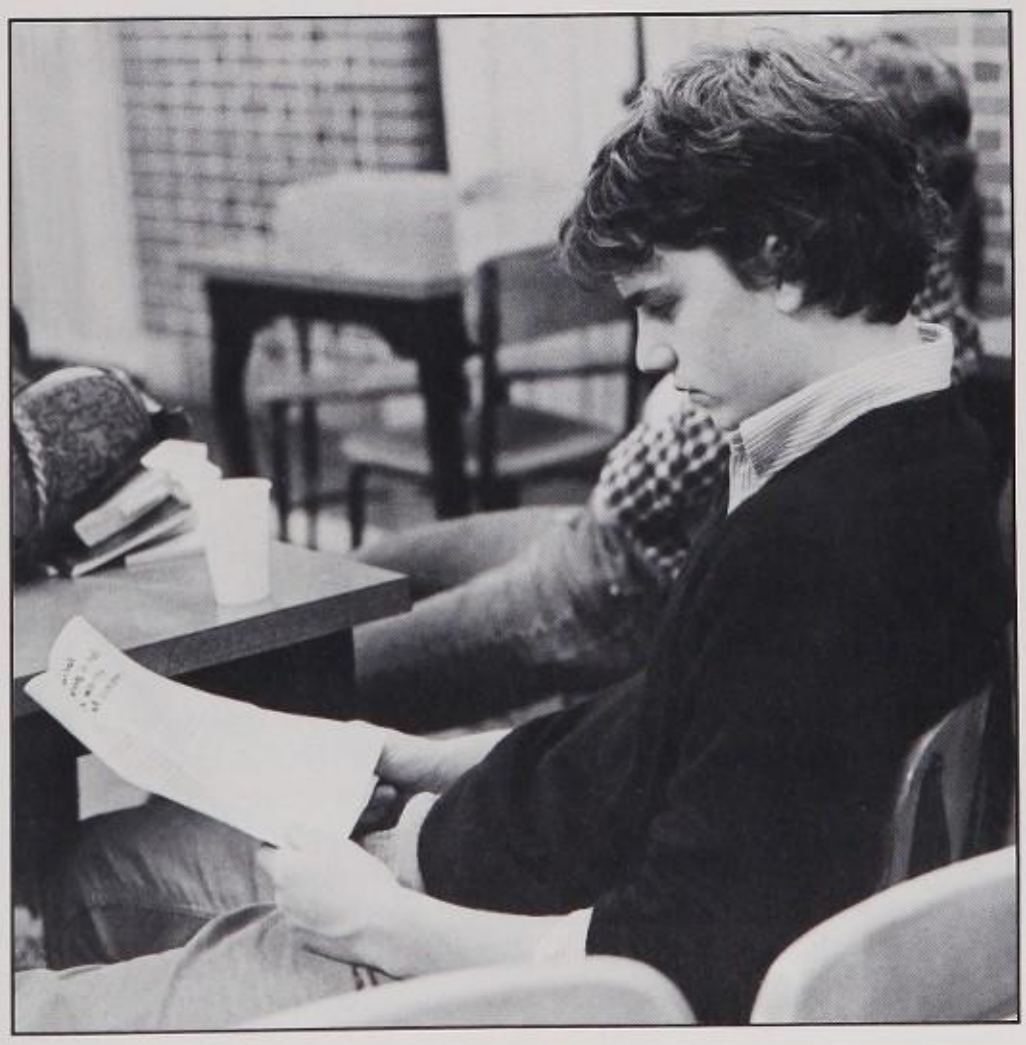
ROLLINS



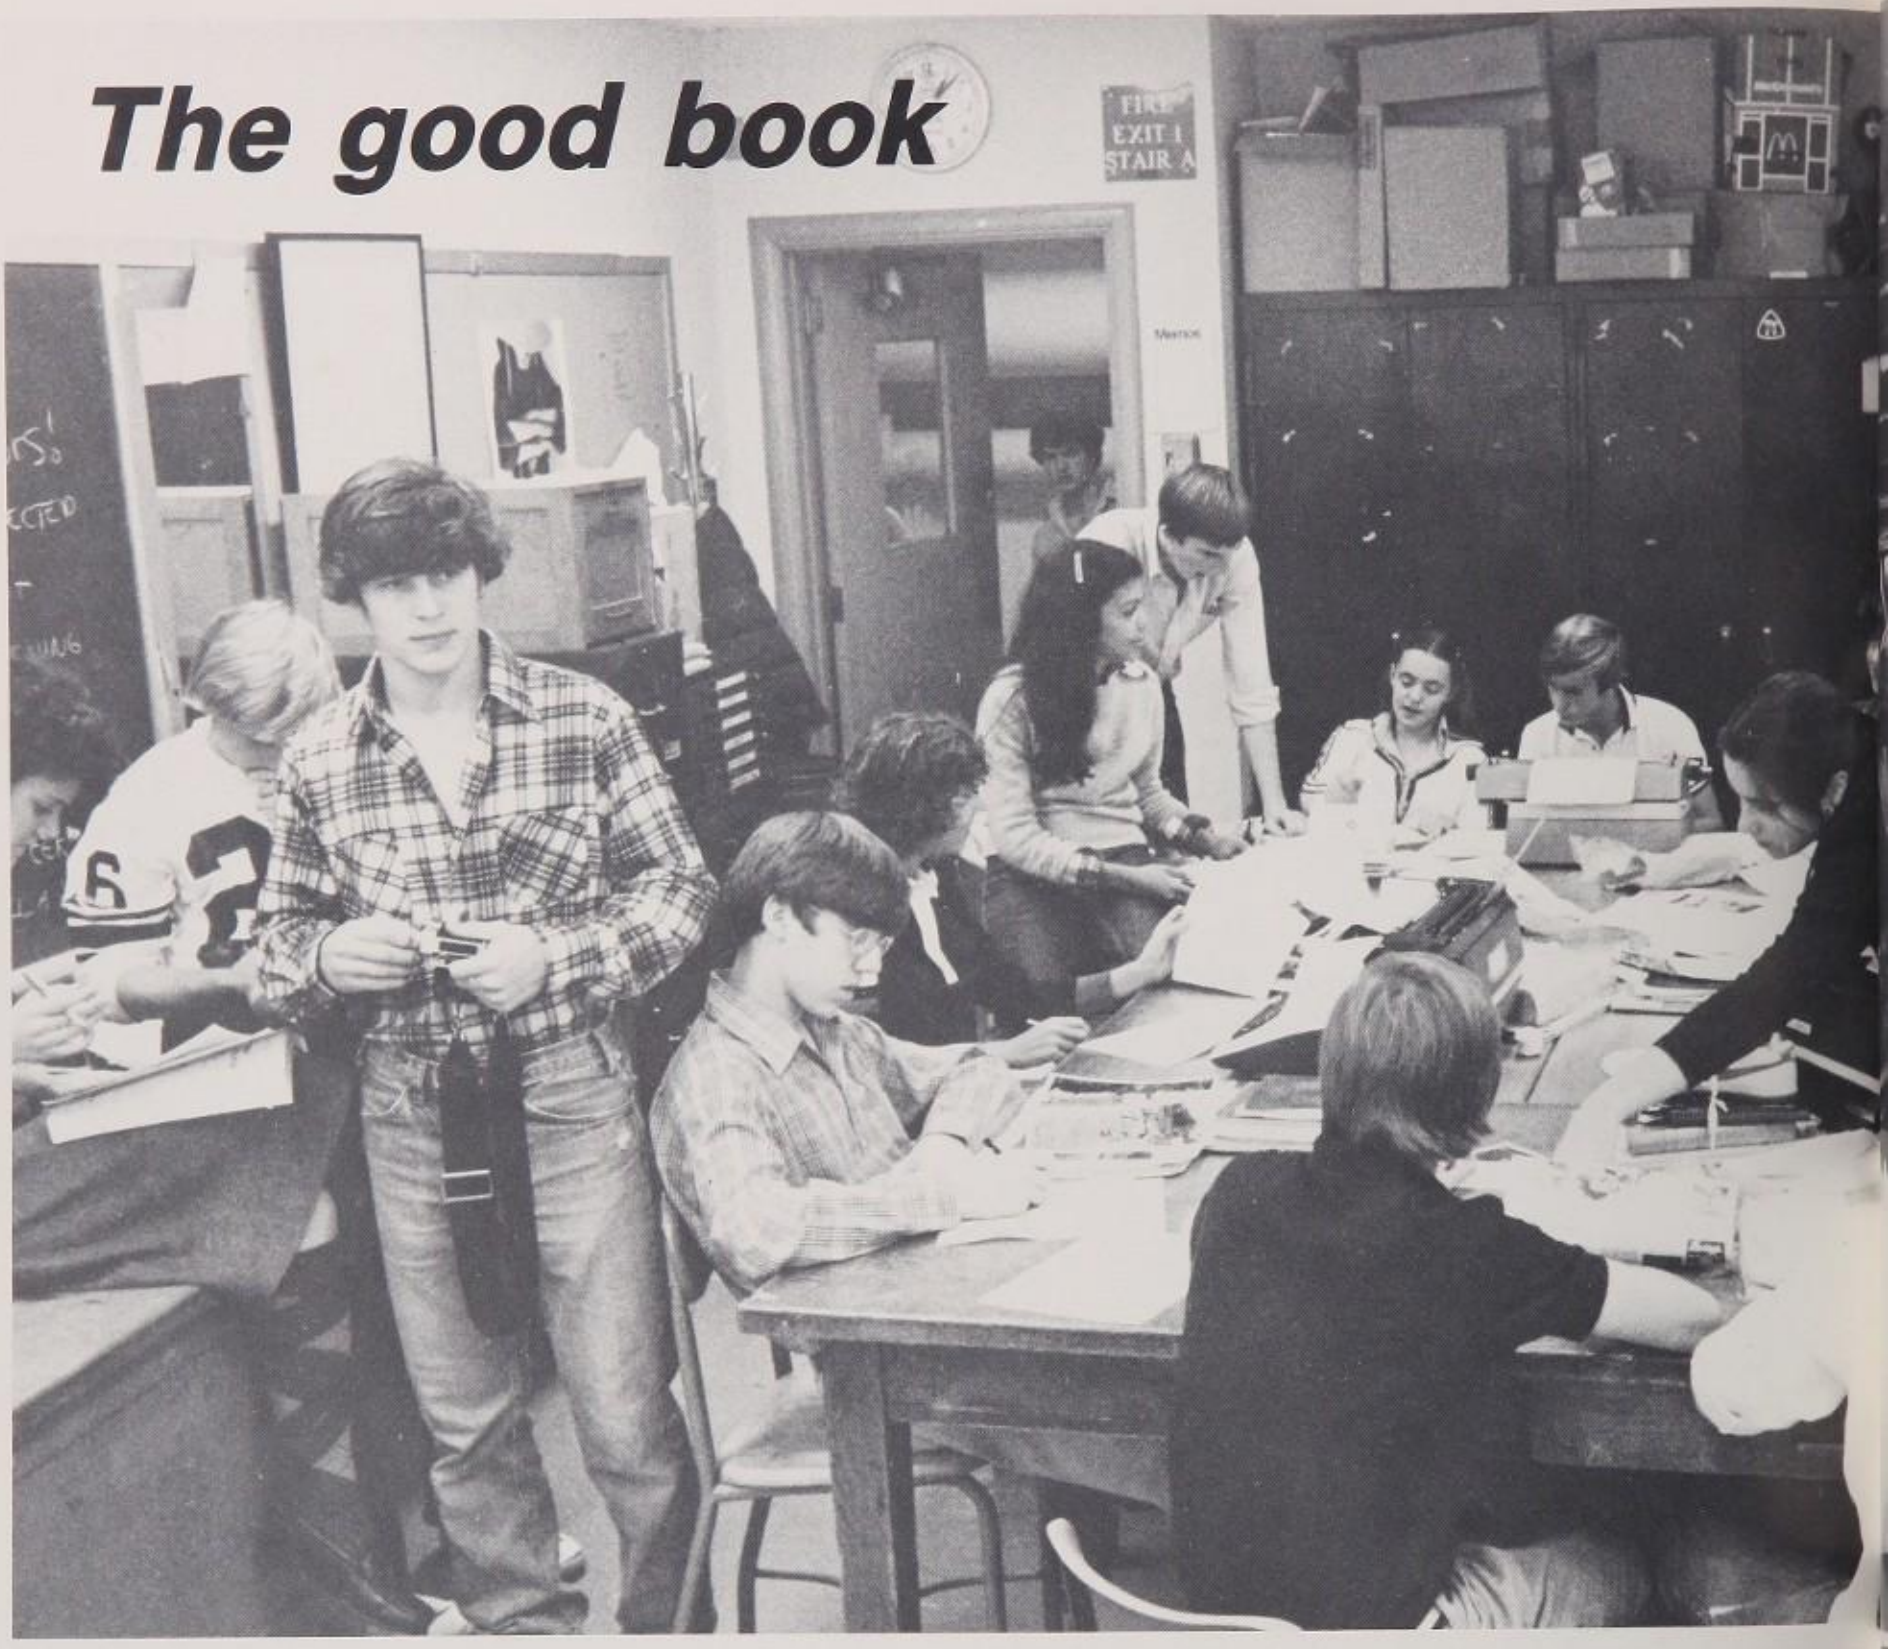


If a tree falls in a forest and no one hears it, does it make a sound? Every day, every week, and every year, New Trier students made themselves heard. Whether broadcasting from the top of the school or writing under the plumbing in the basement, students found a way to reach their audience. Confident of their reception, the communicators were not afraid to make waves.





The good book



In the beginning there was chaos and void and from this abyss came ECHOES '80. Cover ideas were pondered and layouts were drawn. The senior staff proclaimed demanding deadlines, and they were met. And Editor-in-chief Eric Laurence saw that it was good.

The senior editors said, "Let there be stories to instill memories of New Trier in the hearts of the students." So, pencils scribbled rough drafts and typewriters rattled out final copies. The photographers entered their darkroom to transform spectacles into everlasting pictures. Junior assistants captioned the pictures and indexed the masses. As events took place at New Trier, they were inscribed for eternity. And ECHOES sponsor Jeanne Kelly saw that it was good.

Thus, ECHOES '80 was completed by all its mighty throng. As ECHOES day ended, the staff members rested and observed their creation. They had created the yearbook in their own image. And it was good.

Meet the press

Exercising freedom of the press, the New Trier News offered students informative and entertaining reading. As a record of past activities and a means of announcing future events, the paper added a stimulating touch to each Friday morning.

From the first paper of the year, the staff employed a new approach to covering the green and gray in black and white. Articles focused on local and national news in addition to school events. Reporters gained valuable experience in journalism by researching topics that ranged from class to presidential elections. Editor-in-chief Jon Bunge's candid editorials received both credit and criticism as he concentrated on the beliefs and prejudices of our school. By printing letters to the editor, the News served as a public forum for student opinions on critical issues. Maintaining that "a picture is worth a thousand words," photographers and artists supplemented the articles with eye-catching pictures and illustrations. Reader interest in the paper rewarded the entire staff with a feeling of accomplishment.

Deep down in the inner recesses of the school is a small room from which emanates peculiar muffled sounds. Hidden inside, mixing strange chemicals in the dark are the ten photographers who brought life to the pages of this book. In the Photo gallery the ECHOES photographers are given an opportunity to display creations indicative of their efforts and talents.

Being on the ECHOES photo staff is very meaningful; we are all a team, working together to capture not just outward appearances, but the inner feelings of each individual involved with New Trier. Through our photography we try to include all aspects of the student's life as well as the teachers' involvement with us.

Rolling out of bed at the crack of dawn and staying up into the dead of night are both part of the rigorous but rewarding life of a WNTH staff member. WNTH, New Trier's student run radio station, kept the community up-to-date on current events and music releases. From the Pope's historic visit, to rock and roll, WNTH offered a wide range of programs to an audience of diverse taste. Participation by over one hundred and forty students demonstrated student interest in the station.

Working industriously on the tenth annual citrus sale, the station netted a profit of ten thousand dollars, over two and a half times their yearly average. The staff planned to use this money to buy badly needed components that would increase WNTH's classification from a 10 to 100 watt station. Individual dedication made WNTH successful in transmitting quality radio programs to the North shore.

Amateur circuit

Although a lack of funds recently clipped its broadcasting wings, ITV, New Trier's television station, increased its closed circuit intraschool programming. Under the leadership of station manager Seth Wolpert, the staff devoted most of its eighteen hour broadcasting week to producing educational programs for various courses in the school. Stepping out of the studio and onto the court, ITV offered rebroadcasts of New Trier's weekend basketball games. New additions to ITV's library included copies of network television films The Ascent of Man and Missles of October. ITV members learned valuable communication skills by exchanging their viewing seats for work behind the scenes.

The couplet runneth over

Though often hidden from students and faculty, creative talents flourished at New Trier. Throughout the year the products of these skills were accumulated and published in Inklings, New Trier's literary magazine. Spring distribution of Inklings signaled the close of a year filled with imaginative insights.

After the students submitted their works, the Inklings staff selected a variety of written pieces, photographs, and drawings. Under the guidance of Editor - in - chief Mike Hammerman, they arranged the various pieces, developing logical and attractive relationships between them. Inklings discovered the daily notebook doodles and the polished pieces of art that might have remained in art rooms, teachers' files, or bedroom closets.

Teachers were the mentors and tormentors whose knowledge aroused our curiosity and whose English papers haunted our weekends. Their loyalty to academics often amazed us. After recognizing their talents, we appreciated their efforts and respected them because they respected us.

The Center

The Center is a place where one-hundred foot banana splits are created, classroom instruction is given on a Wendella boat ride, and history is studied by attending court sessions. With an absence of grades and the freedom to structure his own education, the Center student assumes the responsibility for learning. Alternative methods of study offer many benefits: the Center student who teaches English to foreign students not only gains valuable teaching experience, but also develops a wider perspective of another language and the English language itself. The Center offers unlimited opportunities bound only by the student's imagination.

Freshmen

Setting out on a long climb, the freshman finds himself on a stepping stone to his future. The explorer may see the ensuing ascent as an appealing encounter or an endless struggle. For the early part of the year, the latter may be the predominant view. Little by little, with help from more experienced peers, he achieves the sure-footedness needed to regain his balance and move ahead. The ominous cliffs may still pose a problem, but with new confidence the frosh finds the trail leveling off, revealing a full range of opportunities ahead.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of maturity, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the year of Dickens, it was the year of geometry, it was the spring of a car wash, it was the winter of a turnabout, it was sophomore year.

Sophomore year featured a loss of freshman inhibitions and increased assimilation into school interests. The power of a driver's license enlarged the choice of activities available to a sophomore. Given a break from the P.E. routines, they took to heart a three week CPR course. Sophomores entered the year with anticipation and departed knowing it was a far, far better year that they experienced than they had ever known.

Juniors

Junior year is a year of growth. His roots firmly implanted in New Trier soil, the junior reaches for personal goals. Thorns in the form of disappointing board scores, low grades, or a dateless prom may injure his confidence but strengthen his resolve. With exposure to college conferences and career modules, the junior develops budding curiousity about the future. As past priorities wither away, new objectives spring up. With parents, teachers, and friends offering nourishment and support, the junior unfolds into a promising green world.

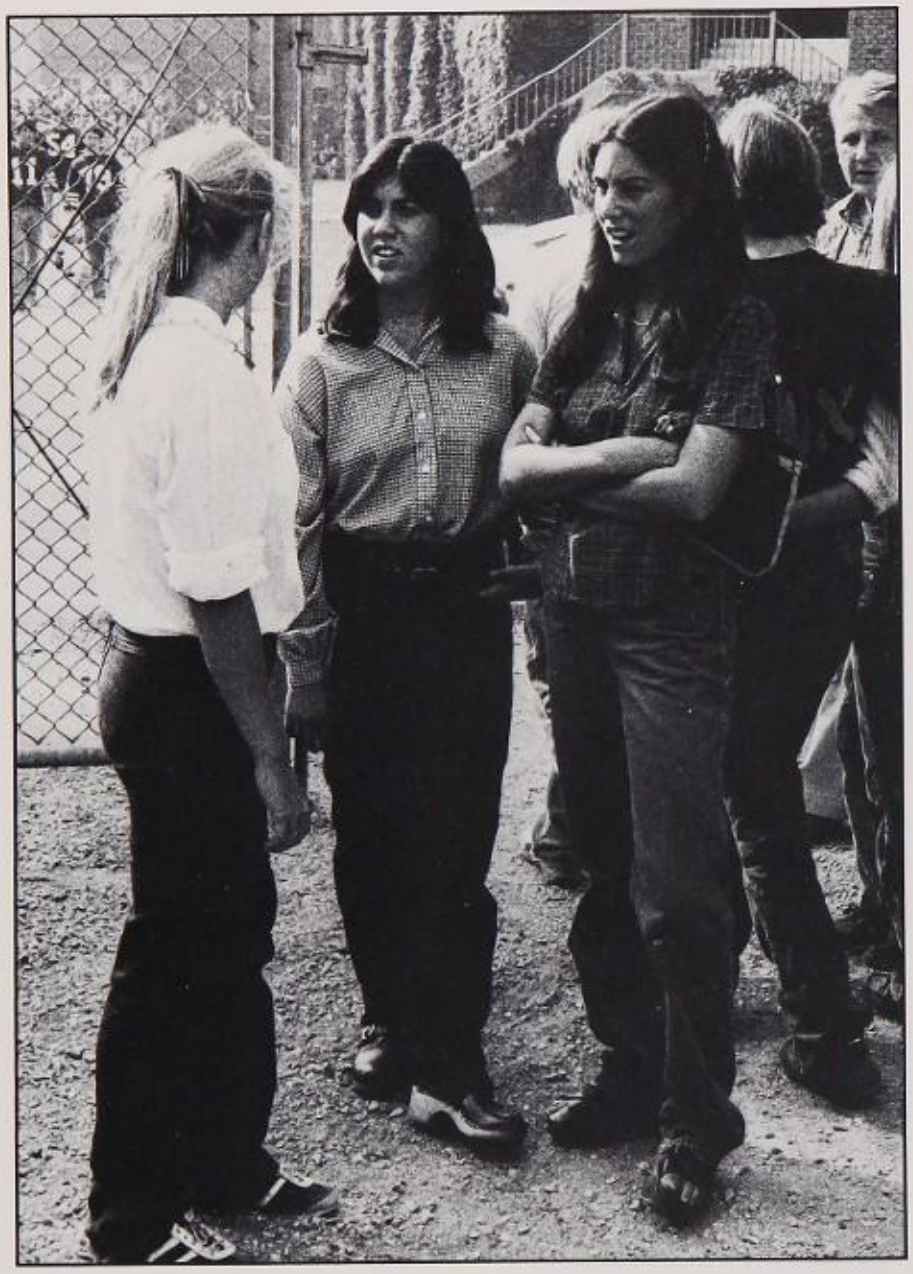
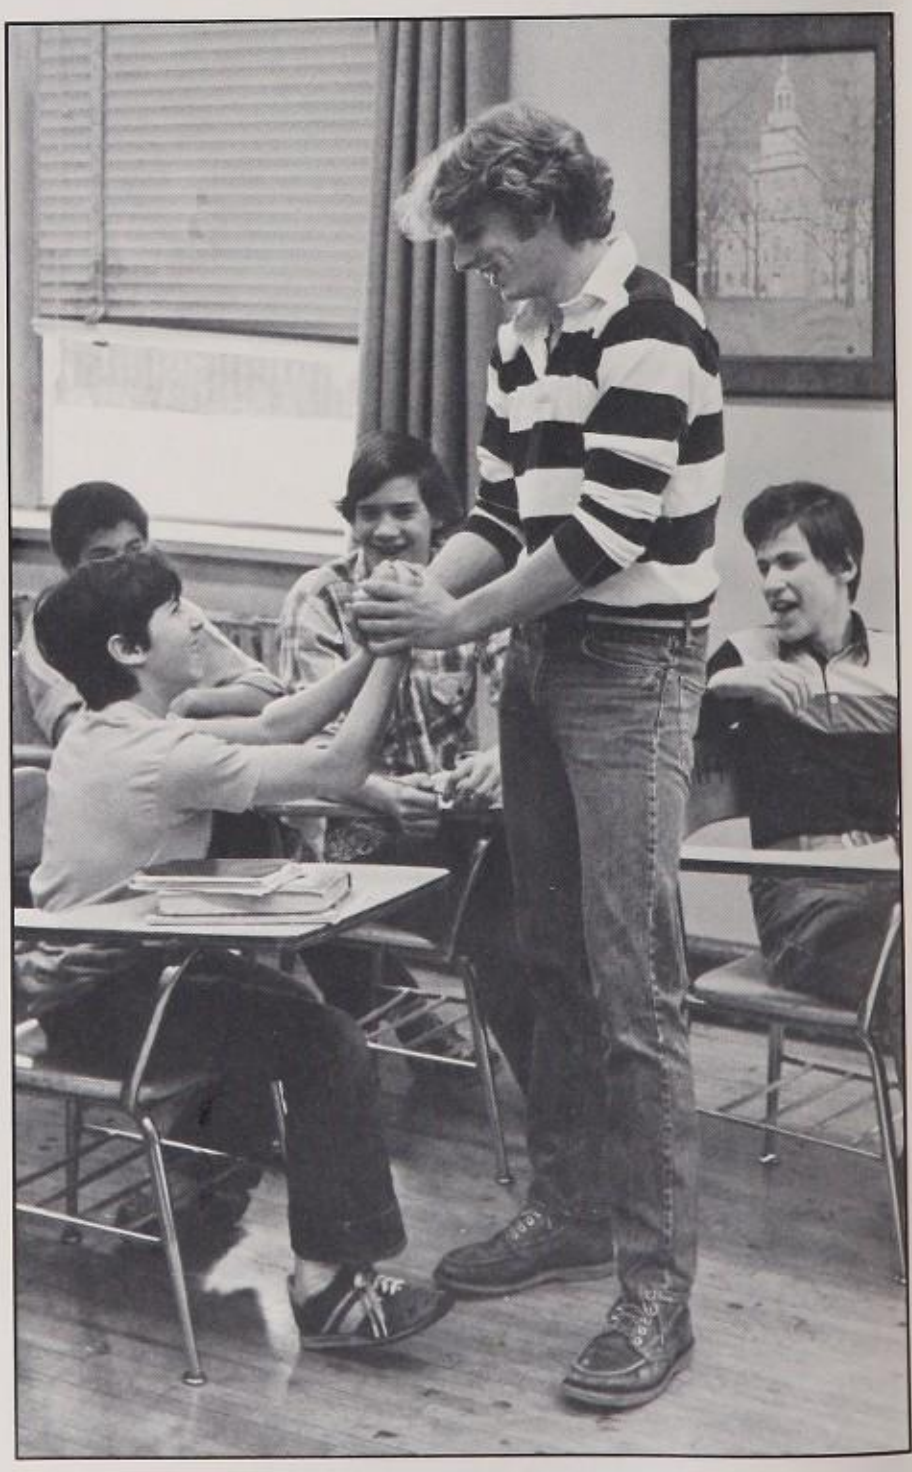
SENIORS





The class of 1980 enjoyed seniority during their last lap at New Trier. As pacesetters of the school, they held key positions in clubs, teams and freshman adviser rooms. Changing priorities characterized the year: first semester seniors planned their futures while second semester seniors planned their weekends. But hanging over their heads was the sobering thought of returning to the starting blocks next year.

In this past year Pandora's box reopened, letting loose the full-grown crises that had been developing throughout the decade. Iran held us hostage. OPEC barrelled us over with higher prices. Viet Nam came back to haunt us in three hit movies and the ghost of the draft rattled its chains. As we watched the boat people drift into oblivion, we found Cambodia crying on our doorstep. At home nuclear reactors nearly created a new American melting pot. The value of the dollar shrank so much that we mistook it for a quarter. Searching to find ourselves, we discovered that the FBI and CIA already had us on file.

But the hope that emerged from Pandora's box made us proud of America and our fellow countrymen. An upsurge of patriotism became evident in renewed political activism and enthusiastic support for our winter olympians. We embraced the Pope whole-heartedly and considered his visit an omen of goodwill. But we will have to do more than count our blessings to prosper in the next decade. As the new generation, it is our responsibility to deal realistically with the world's weaknesses while retaining our youthful ambition to build upon its strengths.

The Editors, 1980

The student life editors believed that a survey would give a graphic illustration of the opinions and character of New Trier students. Taken in February 1980, the poll reflects a tense time in world and local politics and indicates the concerns of today's youth.

Turning and turning in the widening gyre
The falcon cannot hear the falconer;
Things fall apart; the centre cannot hold;
Mere anarchy is loosed upon the world,
The blood-dimmed tide is loosed, and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned;
The best lack all conviction, while the worst
Are full of passionate intensity. —W. B. Yeats

Are the children to receive the arms race from us as a necessary inheritence? —John Paul II

We end this decade looking like the helpless giant in Gulliver's Travels.—Heinz H. Biel, Forbes

The doctor said I was sound as a dollar, and that scared the hell out of me. —Red Skelton

Too bad that all the people who know how to run the country are busy driving taxi cabs and cutting hair. —George Burns

Today a woman without a man is like a fish without a bicycle. —Gloria Steinem

WAR IS PEACE
FREEDOM IS SLAVERY
IGNORANCE IS STRENGTH
—George Orwell

The future's uncertain and the end is always near. —The Doors

Hell is other people. — Sartre

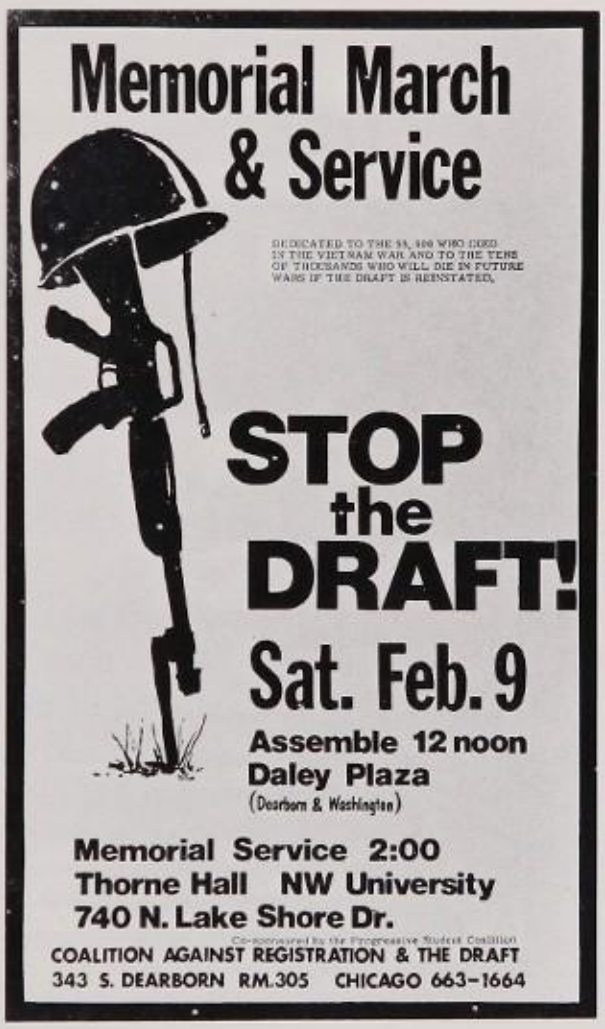
(Kyle)



What a piece of work is man! how noble in reason! how infinite in faculties! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world, the paragon of animals! —Shakespeare

(Cohen)

It would be better to depend upon the great armaments for maintaining peace. —Captain Mahan (1914)

The moral is obvious; it is that armaments lead inevitably to war. —Sir Edward Grey (1914)
